

LINDBERGH BACK HOME TO BOOST AIRPORT BONDS

Flyer Lands at Lambert Field From Kansas City on Return From Flight to California.

OFFERS SERVICES TO AID PROJECT

St. Louis Needs First Class Landing Field to Take Advantage of Location, He Asserts.

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh arrived at Lambert-St. Louis Field from the west at 12:57 o'clock this afternoon ready and eager to aid for the next few days in the campaign to "put over" the $2,000,000 municipal airport bond issue which will be submitted to St. Louis voters at Tuesday's primary.

Col. Lindbergh came as a passenger in an open plane piloted by Philip R. Love, who with a passenger, H. Clay Ferguson, had picked up Lindbergh in New Mexico, where he had made a forced landing in an experimental plane which he was flying about the country making a survey for the Transcontinental Air Transport, Inc., of which Love and Ferguson are consulting engineers.

"I have no definite plans for helping in the campaign for the airport bond issue," Col. Lindbergh said to a Post-Dispatch reporter, "but I intend to remain here several days and I will be willing and glad to do whatever the committee may ask me to do to encourage public interest in the project."

"I think everybody realizes now that aviation is an established means of transportation. I think they will agree that it has proved its reliability and that it is destined to grow in efficiency and importance by leaps and bounds. Every city needs a first-class airport. St. Louis is no exception. This city, particularly, should have such an airport because it is geographically suited to be the air center of the country. It must have a first-class port if it wants to hold its own against the other cities."

"I cannot urge the citizens of St. Louis too strongly to pass the airport bond issue. It is a necessary step in the development of the city's commercial position. Col. Lindbergh was the regulation flyer's helmet and a pair of covers over his business suit when he stepped from the plane. He immediately stripped off the covers and replaced the helmet with a cap which appeared a size or two too small, after which he and his companions went to lunch. The flyers came from Kansas City, where they took off at 11 a. m. after an overnight stop. Yesterday they flew from East Vaughn, N. M.

Airport Essential to Speed in Business, Says Lindbergh

Only by passing the $2,000,000 airport bond issue proposal at the election next Tuesday can St. Louis hope to compete with other American cities in the struggle for air supremacy, Lindbergh, chairman of the Municipal Airport Bond Issue Committee, declared today at a luncheon of the Rotary Club at Hotel Statler.

"Speed is the greatest new influence in our daily business life," Lindbergh said. "The element of time grows more valuable day by day. It has been responsible for the development of the automobile and the fast train schedule. The highways of the air create newer and more efficient means of time saving. So it is that air transportation is certain to become a leading factor in the delivery of merchandise and the transportation of passengers."

"St. Louis is the cross-roads of the nation. It should not lose that position by failing to provide for this most modern method of travel. That is why I say we should provide ourselves with an airport since aviation will come only to the cities that provide it with adequate terminal facilities."

The Master Builders' Association, composed of the leading building contractors of the city, endorsed the bond issue proposal at its meeting yesterday after Clark Hudson, chairman of the Airport Committee of the American Legion Commandery Conference had outlined the need for an adequate airport.

LIGHTHOUSE KEEPER STOPS SHIP TO GET TOOTHACHE REMEDY

Flies Distress Signal and Rows Out in Heavy Sea for Some Medicine.

By the Associated Press.
PANAMA, Aug. 2.—Toothache forced Joseph Hamma, keeper of the Castle Island Light, to venture out in the heavy seas yesterday and stop the steamer Lillian Luckenbach to get a remedy. He flew the British flag reversed as a signal of distress. After receiving medicine he returned to his lonely vigil while the vessel continued on to Cristobal.

SPEEDBOAT 3 HOURS AHEAD OF ROBERT E. LEE'S TIME

Bogie at Caruthersville on Way Upstream From New Orleans; Due Here Tomorrow.

By the Associated Press.
MEMPHIS, Tenn., Aug. 2.—Advices were received here today that Dr. Louis Leroy reached Caruthersville, Mo., at 7:25 a. m. and left in his speed boat Bogie at 8 a. m. in continuation of his attempt to beat the Mississippi River speed record of the packet Robert E. Lee between New Orleans and St. Louis.

The Bogie is on the north end of its 113.6-mile race with the three men aboard expect to end the run tomorrow at St. Louis as did the old packet in the race with the Natchez when the record of 30 hours, 21 minutes between New Orleans and St. Louis was set on July 4, 1920.

When the motorboat showed its stern light to its home port, Memphis, at 11:35 o'clock last night, it was more than three hours ahead of the Robert E. Lee's time. Dr. Leroy, owner of the launch and Robert Hunter, both of Memphis, and Capt. A. A. Faris, Hickman, Ky., who make up the crew, were optimistic of breaking the record.

None of the men had slept since the race began. Dr. Leroy had been at the wheel continuously for 52 hours, eight minutes, while Hunter has nursed the motor and Faris, a river pilot, has picked their course.

CITY OF CINCINNATI LEASES ITS RAILROADS FOR 98 YEARS

Southern Railway System to Pay Municipality $149,000,000 for Use of Line.

By the Associated Press.
CINCINNATI, O., Aug. 2.—The lease of the Cincinnati Southern Railway which runs from Cincinnati to Chattanooga, Tenn., was renewed yesterday to the New Orleans and Texas Pacific Railroad Co. for 98 years by the City of Cincinnati, which owns the line. The latter line is a part of the Southern Railway system.

The lease was approved last November at a city election but has been held up by litigation testing the validity. The lease will mean an estimated revenue for the City of Cincinnati of $149,000,000.

Under the lease it was stated the Cincinnati, New Orleans and Texas Pacific agreed to proceed at its own expense to double-track the road between Williamsburg and Danville, Ky., a distance of 77 miles at a cost of about $13,200,000. When this is done about a total of 240 miles of the 335 miles of line between Cincinnati and Chattanooga will be in double tracks.

The Cincinnati Southern was built by the city of Cincinnati many years ago to develop trade for the city in the South.

HOW DRY AGENTS TRAPPED NIGHT CLUB HOSTESSES

Posed as "Big Business Men" From Dallas, Tex., Who Planned to Open Resort at Home.

SOME TOOK WIVES ON THEIR PARTIES

One in Affidavit Says Helen Morgan Told Him She Had Been Promised Protection.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—The inside story of how undercover prohibition agents hoodwinked Broadway today was made public in affidavits on file in Federal Court. The reports of the agents disclosed the easy manner in which the supposedly sophisticated hostesses, owners and head waiters of the city's foremost night clubs accepted them as "big business men" and sold them liquor for which 133 persons from 26 clubs were indicted. The raids against the clubs were inspired by Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, Assistant Attorney-General, who prosecutes prohibition cases.

Helen Morgan, Broadway actress and night club hostess, the affidavits said, appeared so sure that two of the agents were what they said they were—"big business men" from Dallas, Tex.—that she offered to help one set up a night club in Dallas.

Invited to Party for Actress, Texas Guinan, another affidavit said, invited the supposedly "big business men" to a party she was giving for a moving picture actress and also suggested they visit the night club of her brother Tom.

The affidavits give the names of seven agents who gathered evidence as Lon T. Tyson, Jacob A. Ericklin, Joseph L. White, S. David Beazell, and B. F. Hargrove, John J. Mitchell and H. E. Herlick.

It was at the Frivolt Club, the affidavits showed, that the agents gained the prestige that won them welcome to the other clubs. The headwaiter "Albert," impressed by a liberal spending of money, presented them with a card to Helen Morgan's "summer home."

They had made visits there before they said, but had been unable to buy liquor. But with the card from "Albert" they purchased champagne at $25 a quart, and Scotch whisky at $10 a pint and brandy at $15 a pint.

Other visits followed to Tex Guinan's Salon Royale, the Furman Club, the Silver Slipper and the Emerald Club.

At all of these places, the affidavits assert, the agents, some of whom were accompanied by their wives, were served liquors in full view of and with the knowledge of the headwaiters and hostesses.

DRY CHIEF ASKS SMITH TO SKETCH LIQUOR PLAN

Dr. Nicholson Calls on Nomininee for "Chapter and Verse and Blueprint."

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Dr. E. S. Nicholson, associate superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, has made public an open letter to Gov. Smith asking a "chapter and verse and blueprint" of any plan the Democratic candidate for the presidency may have for dealing with prohibition in the event of his election.

Dr. Nicholson referred in his letter to a recent statement by John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, that if the Governor could find some way to prevent the return of the saloon, eliminate bootlegging with its attendant evils and restore temperance, it would be his duty to promulgate it.

"Speaking frankly," Nicholson wrote, "I have some doubt as to your ability to accomplish what is promised on your behalf and without doubt I express the judgment of some millions of other people in this regard. Of course, as a sincere man, which I freely grant you are, you will not mislead your wet friends into believing that you will be able to accomplish to accomplish something that is impossible under the present amendment."

On the other hand, they no doubt will fail to be satisfied with suggestions that may prove to be impossible of fulfillment. So far as the friends of prohibition are concerned they are curiously interested to know how you propose to be carried into effect. May be you have a plan we can all accept. Let us have chapter and verse and blue print of it all before the wet and the dry get mixed up in heated campaign all to no purpose."

MARBLE FLOOR AND FOUNTAIN BEING PUT IN ART MUSEUM

Sculpture Hall to Be Beautified by Slabs of Pink Stone and 18-Foot Basin.

The sculpture hall of the City Art Museum is being floored with large slabs of pink Tennessee marble, the first change in the museum's architectural plans since it was built for the World's Fair in 1904. A fountain with an 18-foot basin, surrounded by a circle of ferns and other foliage, also will be installed. The improvements will cost $20,000, and will be completed about Oct. 1.

The Board of Control of the Art Museum adopted the new type of flooring when the cement floor, of ferns and other foliage, also will be installed. The improvements will cost $20,000, and will be completed about Oct. 1.

GIVES COUNTY SITE AND $300,000 TO MARY INSTITUTE

Mrs. Newton R. Wilson Provides 20 Acres at Warson and Ladue Roads for Washington U. School.

BUILDING TO BE BEGUN IN AUTUMN

It Will Be Ready for the Fall Term of 1929—Present Lake Av. Structure to Be Sold.

Mrs. Newton R. Wilson of 4 Brentmoor Park has given Washington University $300,000 toward construction expense and a 20-acre site costing $60,000 at the north-west corner of Warson and Ladue roads, St. Louis County, for a new establishment for Mary Institute, the university's primary and preparatory school for girls, it was announced today by Acting Chancellor Throp.

It will be dedicated as a memorial to her. She has been a consistent benefactor of the university, and the total of her known contributions to Washington and its various departments approximates $500,000 now, besides her quiet assistance to numerous students.

The financing of the new building is assured, Dr. Throp said, and Mary Institute is expected to take possession of its new quarters in the autumn of 1929 as a country day school for girls, without changing its academic policy or its relationship to the university. The institute has a surplus of $100,000 in its accounts, in addition to the gift from Mrs. Wilson. Its present building on a large lot extending on Lake avenue from Waterman boulevard to Westminster place, which has an estimated value of $500,000, will be sold to swell the building fund.

The university corporation decided on the change last spring. A year ago there had been talk of separating the institute from the university. For a variety of legal reasons, this was found to be impracticable, if not impossible. University authorities know of no reason for the separation, except that it had been desired to move the girls' school to the country, and since the corporation did not feel at the time that its finances warranted that, friends of the institute thought they might raise the money if it became independent.

Definite plans for the new buildings and development of the grounds have not been prepared, nor has the architect been selected, but it is proposed to start construction in the near future. The site is an attractive section, wooded and hilly, a short distance beyond the St. Louis County Club grounds and about five miles west of the university campus. The neighborhood is being built up with country homes.

Mary Institute has 12 grades, in primary and secondary work, with about 550 students," Dr. Throp said. "The new school will be of approximately the same size. It will have complete recreational and physical training facilities, and the best what might be called a 'morning school,' not offering the advantages of supervised play and study, but the new school will offer those advantages."

"It is hoped the matter of the principalship will be settled by next autumn. Several men are being discussed. In the meantime, Miss Barbara Couland, assistant principal, is acting principal."

Mary Institute, supposedly, was named for a daughter of the Rev. Dr. William G. Elliot, first chancellor of the university. It was established in 1859, only six years after the university was founded, and has always been one of the university's departments. Its first home, built for it, was at Lucas place (now Locust street) and Fourteenth street. In 1879 it moved to a new building at Beaumont street and Locust boulevard. In 1902, through a $100,000 gift from the late William McMillan, it was enabled to move into the large brick structure it now occupies on Lake avenue.

"ALPINE LEAGUE" INDORSES CANDIDATES, SOLICITS CONTRIBUTIONS FROM THEM

COURTNEY'S PLANE FORCED DOWN IN MID-ATLANTIC; SHIPS SPEEDING TO RESCUE

Flyer Who Left Azores for Newfoundland Lands at Sea — Spanish Aviators Also Descend on Ocean.

By the Associated Press.
MONTREAL, Aug. 2.—The exact position of Capt. Courtney's plane at 11:52 a. m. Eastern standard time was 42.30 north 39.40 west, according to a direct wireless message from Capt. Courtney picked up by the steamer Achilla and relayed to the Canadian Marconi station at Cape Breton. The position when Capt. Courtney was forced to land was 42 north 41 west.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—The Radio Marine Corporation reported this afternoon that its Chatham (Mass.) station had information that the steamer President Hayes was at the position where Capt. Courtney's plane landed in mid-ocean and was searching for the plane.

S. S. CEDRIC, by Wireless, Aug. 2.—The steamship Minnetonka has sent to all ships the following message: "Capt. Courtney's plane down latitude 42 north, longitude 41 west. Minnetonka and President Hayes now in vicinity searching for plane."

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—The Radio Marine Corporation announced this morning it had received messages from the liner Berengaria and the radio station at Cape Race, Newfoundland, saying Capt. Frank Courtney had been forced down 600 miles from the Azores on an attempted flight to Newfoundland.

The Radio Corporation received confirmatory advice from the liner Berengaria, which reported that Courtney's plane was seen at 11:52 a. m. giving Courtney's position as approximately 42 degrees north, 41 west.

The White Star liner Cedric was reported to be approximately 100 miles from this position and to be rushing to his assistance. The Grisholm, which was in direct communication with Courtney, said the flyers were in no immediate danger.

A later radio message relayed by way of Cape Race, N. F., indicated that the American liner, the President Hayes, might be the first of the ships to reach the plane. The President Hayes was expected to reach the flyers by 11 a. m. A cable from London reported Spanish Round-the-World Flyers Down After 100-Mile Trip. HUELVA, Spain, Aug. 2.—Major Ramon Franco expects to renew his trans-Atlantic flight in his Dornier-Wal seaplane with this point as a starting place sometime Thursday or Friday. Franco and his three companions expect to fly around the world in 45 days. Their first stop will be made on the Azores.

The plane, the Numancia, arrived here at 7 p. m. after having been forced down off the coast of Portugal by motor trouble. The aviators spent the night at the Rada marina.

The plane came down less than 100 miles from its starting point, Cadix, Spain.

50,000 PRIESTS PLEDGED TO FIGHT IMMODESTY IN DRESS

Album Containing Signatures Presented to Pontiff at Meeting in Rome.

By the Associated Press.
ROME, Aug. 2.—Early Christian women dragged into the circus at Rome to be devoured by wild animals were more concerned in covering their nudity than in saving their lives, the Pope said yesterday in a discussion of immodesty of dress in women of today.

Christianity early transformed pagan women into Christian women so that modesty was a primary concern even under the stress of a horrible death, the pontiff said.

His remarks were made in the course of an audience to the "Organization Against Immorality in Women's Dress." The Pontiff accepted with a show of gratitude an album containing the names of more than 50,000 ecclesiastics pledging themselves to wage war without compromise against "immodesty of dress in women."

WEALTHY DETROIT BROKER KILLED SELF, CORONER FINDS

By the Associated Press.
MONROE, Mich., Aug. 2.—A shotgun wound from which Benjamin Danard, 42 years old, Detroit, Mich., investment broker, died yesterday on his estate at Bolles Harbor near here was self-inflicted, Coroner Huber declared today.

Dayton completed an investigation. The Coroner had said, following a preliminary investigation yesterday, that he thought the death was accidental, but today reversed his opinion after a note was found in Danard's summer home. The opening sentence of the note read: "I go this to protect my friends."

The rest of the letter was not made public but it was understood that it was addressed to his son, Joseph, directing him where to find his father's body.

Danard was said to be one of the most heavily insured men in the United States.

ORGANIZATION HEADED BY FORMER KLAN SECRETARY

Rates Range From $1000 for Gubernatorial Candidate to $25 for Ward Committeeman.

ONLY NON-CATHOLICS ON ITS TICKET

Charge Ostensibly for Pamphlets Containing Recommendations — No Democrats Approached.

An organization operating under the title of "The Alpine Civic League," with headquarters at 8065 Lindenwood avenue, the home of Joseph W. Stevens, general secretary in St. Louis of the Ku Klux Klan when the Klan was active, has entered the Republican primary campaign, soliciting funds from candidates endorsed. The League has issued a list of endorsements, which candidates not approved are terming the Klan ballot.

The League fixed a contribution of $1000 for a candidate for Governor, $500 for Sheriff and on down the line to ward committeemen, who were called upon for $25.

It was represented to the candidates that the money was needed to meet the expense of publishing a booklet containing the endorsements; 100,000 copies were to be issued, it was explained, 40,000 to be distributed by mail and 60,000 by other means. Incidentally the endorsements in all cases were of non-Catholics.

Efforts to obtain information from the office of the League as to the financial results of the scheme were unsuccessful. The treasurer, Alexander J. Ganahl, a tire dealer, denied candidates had been solicited or that money had been collected from candidates. When informed that a canceled check for one $100 contribution had been shown to the reporter and that it bore the endorsement of the League and the Ganahl Tire Co., he naively replied that it was "in payment for tire goods."

The League is following somewhat the plan of the Ku Klux Klan and of the old "Independent Voters League," an anti-Catholic organization which preceded it in St. Louis politics. One difference is that it appears to have limited its activities to the Republican primary, and to have made no effort to solicit funds from Democratic candidates.

Distribution is being made of a pamphlet containing the records and endorsements of candidates from United States Senator down to City Treasurer.

Alpine Guides. The officers of the organization, which uses a letter head of many colors, containing an enticing Alpine scene, are: Ernest P. Brinkman, a lawyer, of 1953 Alfred avenue, president; Richard J. Ganahl of 2193 Withnell avenue, an automobile salesman, vice president; Lon C. McCor of 2324 South Jefferson avenue, a contractor, financial secretary; Alexander J. Ganahl of 1790 Ann avenue, Ganahl Tire Co. treasurer; and Joseph W. Stephens of 5055 Lindenwood avenue, general secretary.

From statements of candidates who were approached, some of whom made contributions and were endorsed, and some of whom refused to contribute and found their opponents endorsed, it appears that the Alpine League used various methods of approach. Sometimes Stevens went out personally and named a definite amount which the candidate was asked to contribute. At other times personal friends of candidates were sent to solicit them.

GEORGE N. PEEK, ILLINOIS FARM LEADER, TO BACK SMITH CANDIDACY

Makes Announcement After Two-Hour Conference With Democratic Nominee in New York.

ASSERTS GOVERNOR WILL AID FARMERS

Aspirant Declares He Is More Than Ever Satisfied With Soundness of Platform Plank.

By The Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—George N. Peek, Illinois farm leader, announced today he would support Gov. Smith for the presidency. His announcement came after a two-hour conference between him and Gov. Smith.

After the conference Smith, in a statement, promised to give exhaustive attention to the problem of disposition of farm surpluses. Later in the day Peek, who supported Frank O. Lowden for the Republican presidential nomination, dictated this statement to newspaper men:

After conference with Gov. Smith this morning, I am sure he has a clear and correct understanding of the farm problem, that if he is elected President he will solve it with intellectual honesty.

Upon the strength of his statements to me, as epitomized in his own public statement today, I shall support his candidacy for President.

At the breakfast table in his suite at the Biltmore, Gov. Smith talked over the farm problem with Peek, who is one of the leading champions of the McNary-Hagen bill, vetoed by President Coolidge. After their talk the Governor issued a formal statement in which he made no reference to his views on the equalization feature of that legislation.

Gives View on Farm.
The text of the Governor's statement follows:

"After my talk with Mr. Peek I am more than ever satisfied that the Democratic platform soundly declares the fundamental basis for relief of the appalling agricultural distress which not only threatens the farmer himself, but is destroying the farm market of $10,000,000,000 for the industries of the country. Control of the sale of agricultural surplus is recognized by our platform as an essential need, its cost to be imposed on the unit to be benefited. That principle is fixed upon our platform, on which I stand—only the details of its accomplishment remain."

"As I have said, I shall immediately, if I am elected, ask the best farm leaders and economists to work out this detail with me. I shall ask them to serve irrespective of locality or party. Republicans like Gov. Lowden, as well as Democrats who have studied this problem, will be called upon by me for this patriotic service. I shall discuss this question at length in my acceptance speech."

Gov. Byrd of Virginia and Senators Swanson of Virginia and Gerry of Rhode Island called to accompany Gov. Smith on an afternoon yachting trip. The three with the nominee left shortly after noon for a yacht club on the East River to go aboard the yacht of William H. Todd, the shipbuilder, and a close friend of Smith. It was planned to stop on the Connecticut shore for a round of golf during the afternoon and to return to New York tonight.

Statement on Finance.
Col. Herbert H. Lehman, director of finance, made a public statement yesterday on the Democratic Committee's financials—an unprecedented action at this stage of a presidential campaign.

The receipts of the committee up to July 31, Lehman said, were $214,512. This includes a treasury balance of $152,679 reported July 1. Disbursements totaled $21,558. The balance, reported July 31, was $192,752.

The decision to report an accounting each month, according to Lehman, is in keeping with the provisions of the party platform, which call for full publicity for all donations and expenditures.

Another appointment to the advisory committee was announced by Senator Peter G. Gerry of Rhode Island, chairman. Senator

No Wonder Hoover Couldn't Catch Any Fish

REPORTERS and photographers invited to accompany Herbert Hoover on his fishing trip in the giant redwood country of Northern California made such a pother along the streams that the candidate's luck was nil. Here are Mr. Hoover and his guests "roughing it" in the woods and lacking only a movie director with a megaphone to make the scene complete.

Alvin W. Barkley of Kentucky, a member of the Senate committee investigating pre-convention expenditures, was named.

Among the heaviest contributors to the Democratic fund announced yesterday are:

John D. Ryan, president of the Anaconda Copper, $10,000; John T. Smith, general counsel of General Motors, $10,000; William F. O'Neill of Akron, O., president of the General Tire and Rubber Co., $5,000; Hugh C. Wallace, ambassador to France under President Wilson, $5,000; Howard S. Cullman, tobacco manufacturer, $5,000; T. Kaliski, attorney, $5,000; Mrs. Henry James $4,000.

The largest disbursement was $10,000 for salaries and overhead expenses at headquarters.

ASKS COURTS TO ENFORCE BAR ON FILM BLOCK BOOKING

Federal Trade Commission Makes Appeal After Movie Concerns Fail to Obey Order.

By The Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—The Federal Trade Commission has made application to the courts for the enforcement of its decision of July 9, 1927, prohibiting block booking of motion pictures by the Paramount Motion Pictures-Lasky Corporation.

The application was filed with the United States Circuit Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit, New York City. A statement from the commission said:

"The commission's action follows failure of the motion picture concern to submit a satisfactory report of compliance with the block booking clause of the commission's order which prohibited the corporation and Messrs. Zukor and Lasky from continuing the practice of block booking—that is, leasing films in a block or group and showing them at one or more theaters in the group or block or none at all, without regard to the character of the pictures or the wishes of the picture houses."

HEAVY STORM IN MINNESOTA

By The Associated Press.
MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Aug. 2.—Crops, buildings and other property were damaged or destroyed by severe wind, hail and electrical storms in Central and Southern Minnesota late yesterday. Several towns reported buildings were blown down. Here and in St. Paul windows were broken, trees uprooted and basements flooded.

Several airplanes at the World Chamberlain Field, Minneapolis, were destroyed. A seaplane was lifted from its moorings on Lake Minnetonka and dropped on the roof of the park pavilion. The upper deck of the Belle of Minnetonka, an excursion steamer on Lake Minnetonka was wrecked.

Brennan's Condition Favorable.

CHICAGO, Aug. 2.—Dr. C. R. G. Forrester, one of the specialists in attendance on George E. Brennan, Illinois Democratic chieftain, today said his patient's condition was "very favorable." "Mr. Brennan's greatest asset is his spirit. He feels he will pull through and I am confident he will. He is resting comfortably this morning and his temperature and pulse are normal. The patient ate a good breakfast," said Dr. Forrester. The Democratic leader has been in a hospital since a week suffering from septic poisoning, following the extraction of two infected teeth.

SAYS GERMANS USED BLACKMAIL DIPLOMACY

Document Tells of Blustering Tactics by Kaiser's Envoys in 1907.

By The Associated Press.

LONDON, Aug. 2.—Important sidelights on the background of the war are supplied in a new installment of British diplomatic documents covering the period from 1904 to 1908, issued under the title, "The Testing of the Entente."

Notable among the documents is a long secret memorandum by Sir Eyre Crowe, former Counselor of the British Embassy in Berlin, dated Jan. 1, 1907, examining the German policy and action in Morocco and South Africa during the Boer War, also in Zanzibar, and the efforts to improve Anglo-German relations.

Sir Eyre wrote: "The success of Bismarck apparently regarded it as his ultimate purpose to extract valuable concessions from England by offensive bluster and persistent nagging." He compared their attitude toward Britain to that of a "professional blackmail."

Attached to some of the documents are notes penned by King Edward VII showing he had no illusions regarding the German feeling for Britain. "A case of bullying as usual," he wrote. "The German attitude toward Britain is a case of bullying as usual." "The German attitude toward Britain is a case of bullying as usual."

The documents include a portrait of the former German Emperor written in 1906 by Sir Frank Lascelles, then British Ambassador at Berlin, describing the monarch as impulsive and fond of jokes which sometimes were taken seriously by those who did not understand them. On one occasion Sir Frank made to Emperor William a communication of an agreeable nature. The Emperor remarked: "The monodies seem to have had a lucid interval."

Asked whether he wished such a message conveyed to the British Government, the Kaiser translated the remark into diplomatic language and told the Ambassador to say he had received the communication with great interest and satisfaction.

Sir Frank summed up with the conclusion that the Emperor thought of "sabotaging" mustache-twirling" attitude was befitting to the ruler of a mighty Empire, but that in reality he was animated by the most pacific sentiments.

SUBDUED BY GAS BOMB

Farm Hand Who Fired at Deputies Held for Observation.

A tear-gas bomb was used in the capture of John Lewis, 50 years old, a farm hand on the Jacob Meese farm near Belleville, after he began firing at trees and other objects with a revolver yesterday. He returned the fire of Deputy Sheriffs who tried to arrest him.

Finally he buried the bomb into the shed where he lived, overpowered him and took him to the observation ward of the St. Clair County hospital.

Ten Youthful Radicals Arrested.

By The Associated Press.

ROCKFORD, Ill., Aug. 2.—Ten members of the Young Worker's League, an alleged communist organization, defied efforts of police to break up a street meeting last night and were lodged in jail, while their attorney, George M. T. Liddell, former Rockford City Attorney, tried unsuccessfully to procure their release. Two girls, each 18 years old, who said they had come from Kansas City, Mo., were among those arrested. Their leader, Leon Platt, 22, said he was a Russian and a drug clerk. Ages of the others arrested ranged from 15 to 20 years and most of them claimed to be students.

LINDBERGH AND TEXAS CRITIC EXPLAIN AND MAKE PEACE

Gene Howe, Publisher, Retracts
"Swell Head" Charge; Flyer Admits Curtness to Crowd.

By The Associated Press.

AMARILLO, Tex., Aug. 2.—Peace has been declared between Col. Charles Lindbergh and Gene Howe, local newspaper publisher, who three months ago called the trans-Atlantic flyer a "swell head." Public explanations have been made by both principals following the Colonel's brief visit here yesterday while on his way from East Vaughton, N. M., to Kansas City.

Howe, son of Ed Howe, "the sage of potato hill" of Atchison, Kan., printed his explanation which closed with the statement that "Lindbergh is a scholar and a gentleman and hasn't the big head." The men did not meet, however.

The editor launched his criticism when Lindbergh, on a brief visit here in the spring, spoke curtly to people standing near his airplane. Lindbergh smiled, when asked about the affair yesterday.

"If Mr. Howe has forgotten the incident, I have, too," he said. "I may have brought it on myself by speaking too curtly to a group of men who went too close to the propeller of my ship."

EIGHT KILLED IN FALL OF 500-TON STEEL GATE

Thirty Others Injured in Accident at New Welland Canal.

By The Associated Press.

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., Aug. 2.—With the death last night of two of the 30 or more men injured yesterday when a 500-ton steel gate crashed into an excavation for the Welland ship canal at Thorold, the death toll was increased to eight.

Several of the bodies recovered were badly crushed, but all the victims were identified as workmen who had been in the excavation when the crane hoisting the gate weakened and dropped its burden upon them.

Million Rogers Expects Heir.

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—The New York Evening Post today says the former Million Rogers, wealthy Argentine, are moving from their Fifth Avenue home to Roslyn, L. I., in anticipation of the birth of their first child. Mr. Rogers is the former wife of Count Salvo Hogstraeten. They had one child—a son, Peter. Rogers is employed in a Wall Street broker's office.

HOOVER RETURNS HOME AFTER HIS FISHING TRIP

G. O. P. Nominee Will Revise His Acceptance Speech, Now Reduced to 7000 Words.

By The Associated Press.

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Cal., Aug. 2.—Herbert Hoover, Republican presidential nominee, returned to his home on the Stanford campus today from a fishing trip in Southern Oregon and Northern California.

The party arrived in Oakland by train from Shasta Springs this morning, ferried across San Francisco Bay and came to Stanford from San Francisco by automobile. Several members of the party came from San Francisco in taxicabs.

Hoover will give his next acceptance address its final revision and then turn his attention again to affairs of the political campaign, which will be formally opened at the notification ceremonies in Stanford University Stadium one week from next Saturday.

The acceptance address had been boiled down to less than 7000 words before Hoover left Stanford and he hopes it will be possible to reduce it finally to not more than 5000 words, the delivery of which would, perhaps, require less than 40 minutes. Its main sections will deal with prohibition and farm relief, but running through it all will be the theme of the philosophy of government and its functions in these changed times which have come with industrial and commercial expansion.

Hoover has benefited materially from his trip so far as his physical condition is concerned. Wind and sun have given him a good color and the nights in the refreshing mountain air have rested him. With all he has been able to find the solitude he sought after his days and weeks of labor on his acceptance address at Washington, on the train crossing the continent and at his home at Stanford.

Hoover, his son, Allan, his secretary, George Akerson, and his friend, Thomas T. C. Gregory of San Francisco were so late in getting back to the Shasta Springs Hotel last night that those awaiting him there began to grow anxious and started telephoning about the country to locate the nominee.

Hoover, his face red from exposure with the sun, was the first to leave the car, but he was surrounded before he could get into the door of his cottage.

"Mr. Secretary, we were all beginning to worry about you," he was told.

Hoover smiled and said there was no need for worry; that the party had stopped at McCloud for dinner and then had motored around the base of Mount Shasta for a time.

Party Gets One Fish.

"How many fish did you catch?" was the next question shot at the candidate.

"Well, we didn't have very much luck," Hoover replied with a smile. "We held a conference and decided that more and better trout and less time between the bites is the burning issue in these counties of Northern California."

Other members of the party disclosed that a single fish was caught during the day and that was hooked by Allan Hoover. The Secretary himself had a fish on his line but he dropped it to haul in a two-pound trout which his 21-year-old son had hooked.

"Alpine League" Indorses Candidates for Pay

and George W. Strodman for Sheriff, was visited by Stevens about the Fourth of July. Gehner told a Post-Dispatch reporter that Stevens thought a candidate for Governor should contribute $1000 and a candidate for Sheriff $500.

"Stevens told me," Gehner said, "that the Alpine Civic League would indorse Strodman on his record, but that there would be expenses in getting 100,000 copies of the sample ballot containing the indorsements. It appeared he came to see me particularly about the approval of Strodman, and that his mention of $1000 from Caulfield was largely incidental. He said it would cost about $4500 to issue the ballot, or booklet containing the sample ballot."

"He said Mr. Strodman would be expected to pay $800 and permit to permit the League to select his Chief Deputy."

"When he mentioned an indorsement of Caulfield I asked him the price there, and he replied it would be $1000."

"I told Stevens I would speak to Strodman and to Collector Koenig, the latter on the Caulfield end of the matter. I did speak to both of them, and both rejected the proposal."

Neither Strodman nor Caulfield was indorsed.

Judge Becker's Experience.

Judge William D. Becker, candidate for the Republican nomination for Judge of the Court of Appeals, apparently saved money by a contribution to the League before he was directly asked for it.

When the Judge was asked by a reporter if he had "contributed" to the "Alpine Civic League," he said: "A lawyer of standing, one of my personal friends, called at my office on July 11 and told me I had received a fine indorsement of the Alpine Civic League—of which I never had heard, but which he described to me as an organization of business and professional men which had undertaken to investigate the records of candidates and to make recommendations of those it deemed best qualified."

Hoover has benefited materially from his trip so far as his physical condition is concerned. Wind and sun have given him a good color and the nights in the refreshing mountain air have rested him. With all he has been able to find the solitude he sought after his days and weeks of labor on his acceptance address at Washington, on the train crossing the continent and at his home at Stanford.

THREE FIGHT CROWD AFTER AUTO CRASH

Free-for-All at St. John's Station Follows Collision on St. Charles Road.

A free-for-all fight, with three husky St. Louisans standing off the field, ensued at St. John's Station on the St. Charles road, St. Louis County, today after the dash of a Marmon roadster into the county ended as it bounced off two eastbound automobiles and crashed into a third machine.

Out of the roadster, much the worse for the collision, climbed three men, who said they were H. T. Lindsay, an attorney, of 3558 West Pine boulevard; Wayne Fletcher, an insurance man, of the same address, and Marvin Pack, bank employee, who lives at the Congress Hotel.

Lindsay, 5 feet 4 1/2 inches tall, weighing 156 pounds, towered over the scene. In the battle that followed, shoulder to shoulder with him, stood Fletcher, 6 feet 1 inch, 225 pounds, and Pack, 5 feet 10 inches and 170 pounds.

Lindsay, a number of years ago, was star tackle and guard on the St. Louis University football team.

The roadster, driven by Pack, sped over the county line at 7 a. m. out of the reach of pursuing city police, county authorities said.

After sideswiping two eastbound cars, it collided with the coupe of Norman F. Alsmeyer, 9436 Margaret avenue. Alsmeyer escaped with slight scratches and bruises.

In the roadside dispute that followed, Alsmeyer was backed up by passing motorists and residents in the neighborhood. A crowd gathered quickly. Fists began to fly.

In the heat of the melee, somebody turned in a riot call. Three deputies arrived at 7:50 a. m. and arrested the three occupants of the roadster. They were taken to Clayton for investigation. They made no statement.

Lightning Again Strikes Boy, 3. EXCELSIOR SPRINGS, Mo., Aug. 2.—Richard Milton Bryan, 3-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bryan, suffered burns on the head Tuesday when lightning struck the Bryan home here. It was the second time the child had been struck by lightning this year.

Y. W. C. A. EJECTS TWO ARRESTED AS PICKETS

New Bedford Union Officer
Asks for National Protest Against This Ruling.

By the Associated Press.
NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Aug. 2.—Two women labor organizers who had been living at the Young Women's Christian Association here were requested to leave the institution yesterday because they had been arrested during picketing activities in the textile strike here. The action of the Y. W. C. A. led Frank J. Donnelly, secretary of the Textile Council's Strike Committee, to ask William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, to protest by having industrial girls workers living at the Y. W. C. A. throughout the country leave that institution and live elsewhere.

The organizers are Miss Sadie Relsch and Miss Josephine Kaczor of New York. Miss Relsch was fined $20 for parading without a permit. Miss Kaczor is charged with rioting.

The eviction was prompted by a desire to uphold the law, Miss Lydia M. Chase, local Y. W. C. A. president, said.

Strike leaders gave attention to care of children whose fathers or mothers were among those sentenced to the House of Correction. Many instances of this kind were noted and steps taken to feed the children.

Eight arrests were made today as police continued their campaign against massed picketing. Eli Keller of Passaic, N. J., and Miss Elizabeth Donnelly of Boston, textile mill committee leaders, among those arrested.

Judge Frank A. Milliken, in District Court with monotonous routine today sentenced scores of strikers to jail terms and imposed fines of $20 on many others. Nearly 200 cases came before the Court. Some of the heaviest sentences were meted out to Textile Mill Committee leaders on riot charges. Six months in the House of Correction was the rule in such instances. Five defendants received 7-month sentences for assault upon police.

All the sentences and fines were appealed.

HOLDS RAILWAYS
MAY EMPLOY ONE TRANSFER FIRM

Examiner Ames Reports
Their Proposal for Hauling Freight Does Not Violate Law.

Post-Dispatch Bureau.
201-203 Kellogg Bldg.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—In a report to the Interstate Commerce Commission, made public today, Harry C. Ames, a commission examiner, said the proposal of carriers within the St. Louis and East St. Louis terminal district, other than the Chicago & Alton Railroad Co., to employ a single transfer company for hauling of freight between off-track and on-track stations within the district, was not a violation of the Interstate Commerce Act.

Ames further reported that the proposal of the carriers to reduce the number of off-track stations in the St. Louis area from 12 to 7 and in the East St. Louis area from three to two would not be harmful to the public service. He found, however, that the schedules proposed by carriers were not justified in their present form.

Wants Study of Costs.
He recommended that the record be held open to afford the carriers an opportunity to submit a cost study of the services involved and to prepare new tariffs and contracts to be offered at a later hearing. The commission will be guided by the Ames report, but is not bound to follow its recommendations.

Two transfer companies, the Columbia Terminals Co., and the Central Transfer Co., are now engaged in the less than carload freight shipments between the off-track and on-track stations.

City Opposed Plan.
Counsel for the City of St. Louis and the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce intervened in the case and argued that if off-track stations were necessary, they should be owned and operated by the railroads themselves and not by independent transfer companies. The hauling between stations, they contended, could be performed either by railroad owned truck or by private companies under competitive bidding.

SIMMONS URGES CONSCIENCE AS VOTERS' GUIDE ON SMITH
Senator Hopes for Election of Local Men, But Advises Freedom on National Ticket.

By the Associated Press.
WILMINGTON, N. C., Aug. 2.—The Wilmington News-Dispatch published today a letter quoting Senator Simmons, a Democratic leader in the State, as advocating that all Democratic voters should be free "in the exercise of their conscientious conviction and judgment with respect to the national ticket."

The letter was turned over to the newspaper by A. B. Groom, an insurance man. Simmons was one of Gov. Smith's most outspoken opponents prior to the Houston convention, and recently resigned as National Committeeman. The letter said in part:

"I am deeply interested in the election of the Democratic State, district and local tickets, and I earnestly hope they may receive the undivided support of the democracy of the State, but I feel that because of Gov. Smith's action since his nomination with reference to the platform, his organization of the National Democratic Executive Committee, and his alliance with interests and groups hostile and antagonistic to the fundamental principles of Democracy, all Democratic voters should be free from coercion or restraint in the exercise of their conscientious conviction and judgment with respect to the national ticket."

CANDIDATE TO PENAL FARM

By the Associated Press.
DIXON, Ill., Aug. 2.—James A. Logan, Ambly Jeweler, who is a candidate for Governor on one of the minor party tickets in the November election, was taken to the State labor farm at Joliet today by Sheriff Miller to begin serving a term of one year for violation of the prohibition laws.

In 1926 Logan was a candidate for the United States Senate on the light wines and beer ticket.

Gov. Smith's Wife Slightly Ill.
By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Mrs. Alfred E. Smith remained in her suite at Hotel Pittmore today because of a "slight indisposition." It was understood her illness is a stomach ailment. Mrs. Smith canceled several engagements for the afternoon.

Re-discovers
His Favorite
TobaccoCharles W. Va.
March 4, 1927

Larus & Bro. Co.,
Richmond, Va.
Gentlemen:

Recently I stopped in a little village that consisted of about nine houses and a small hotel, which I entered. A little old man wearing a skull cap was seated in a rocking-chair smoking an enormous pipe. I had come to buy a can of Edgeworth, but when I caught a whiff of the tobacco he was smoking I changed my mind. The aroma of that tobacco was so delightful that I made up my mind right then and there that I wanted some of the same brand, regardless of the cost.

I began with: "I beg your pardon, sir, but I came in to buy a can of tobacco, and I would like the same brand you are smoking if you don't mind telling me." He looked at me for a moment, grasped his pipe with one hand and said: "I'm smoking Edgeworth. Would you like some?"

Of course I did, and I secured a supply from the old fellow. The joke, of course, was on me, but I went on my way rejoicing.

Yours very truly,

Dr. John R. Koch

COOLIDGES VISIT
IRON RANGES IN NORTH MINNESOTAOn Fifth Anniversary of Accession to Presidency
He Inspects Largest Open Pit Mine in World.

By the Associated Press.
HIBBING, Minn., Aug. 2.—President Coolidge celebrated today, the completion of his fifth year in the presidency, by traveling to the top of the iron ranges of Minnesota and gazing down into the largest open pit mines of the world from which 80 per cent of the annual iron supply of the United States is derived.

The chief executive, accompanied by Mrs. Coolidge and their son, John, traveled from the summer White House by rail, reaching this district late in the morning. At Hibbing Station he was met by a reception committee and driven to the edge of the Hull Rust open pit mine, 800 feet deep and miles in circumference.

After a visit to the Susquehanna, another large open pit mine, the itinerary called for a ride through the city and a short stop at the Hibbing High School, one of the largest and most expensive in the country. Special traffic regulations, with no cars allowed on the main streets and ropes stretched along the route of the party had been promulgated to give every one a chance to see the chief executive on his way to and from the mines. The morning was a half holiday by proclamation.

Also to Visit Lumber Mill. The next stop on the President's program was Virginia, Minn., where the party was to be taken to the Missabe Mountain mine, which is operated by the State of Minnesota.

The Virginia Rainey Lake Lumber Mill, largest white pine lumber mill in the world, was another of the points of interest to be shown the President at Virginia. A short ride through the city, similar to the one here, also was planned.

The President's host on the trip was W. A. McGonagle, president of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern Railway. The President, Mrs. Coolidge and their son, John, were expected back at Cedar Island Lodge in Northern Wisconsin early tonight.

BUSINESS MEN HOLD PROTEST
MEETING ON SKIP-STOP SYSTEM

Are Urged to Present Data at Commissioner's Hearing Next Week.

Members of the Olive Street Business Men's Association, which is fighting the skip-stop system for Olive street cars between Twelfth boulevard and Channing avenue, were urged at a mass meeting at a dance hall at Ewing avenue and Olive street last night to present definite figures on their business losses attributed to the skip-stop plan, to Commissioner Porter of the Public Service Commission, at a hearing in the City Hall next Thursday.

Many of the business men have declared the skip-stop system has greatly reduced their trade. The Public Service Co. has ignored the city's order to resume stops at all corners and the controversy is before the commission. Alexander Philipak, a former Associate City Counselor, is attorney for the business men, and he told them last night to lay records before the commissioner and to refrain from "wild statements."

There was discussion of a test case in court, should the commission uphold the skip-stop system. The scheme is to have some members refuse to pay their fares unless a car stops for them at a non-stop corner, and to invite arrest.

BACKS TICKET
FOR COUNTY POSTS

Charges $100,000 Fund Has Been Raised to Defeat Judge Mulloy Who Ordered Grand Jury Inquiry.

St. Louis County politics took a new turn with the announcement today of the active entry of the County Taxpayers' League into the campaign for nominations for all important local offices in next Tuesday's primary.

Leading figures on the league slate include Circuit Judge Mulloy, who convened the special grand jury which has been returning indictments in an investigation of graft and corruption, and Julius R.
Nolte, another candidate for the Circuit bench; Marshall B. Peterson, foreman of the present Federal grand jury, which is to inquire into county affairs also, for Sheriff, and Harry W. Castlen, now County Counselor, for Prosecuting Attorney.

Although declaring it is non-partisan, the Taxpayers' League, for reasons of political expediency, is concentrating in the primary on the nomination of approved Republican candidates, inasmuch as Republican nominees there generally are elected.

The league derives its present potential political strength from the fact that it has succeeded in creating quietly a strong working arrangement among candidates and their friends, who otherwise would have been laboring independently. In fact, its bid for success has been such that many practical politicians heretofore have been aligned with the old Republican political machine have joined forces with it.

To Issue Recommendations.
Comparatively few persons have known about the plans of the league, which has been in existence for several years but which heretofore has been active in a civic rather than in a political way.
However, its sample ballot and a statement of its demand for clean politics and good government are to be distributed among suburban voters this week-end and every one of the 8500 holders of rural mail boxes in the county likewise will be reached.

Officers of the league are: J. A.
Jennings of Richmond Heights, president; Gustave Loettl of Webster Groves, secretary; Mrs. Clarence H. Eldridge of Kenwood Springs and W. J. Hawkins of West Walnut Manor, vice presidents; George W. Baumhoff of Keyes Summit, a veteran leader of county reform movements, chairman of Executive Committee, and Mrs. Jasper Blackburn of Webster
Groves, vice chairman.

Others on League Slate.
In addition to Mulloy, Nolte, Peterson and Castlen, candidates backed by the league are: Farris
L. Penn, County Judge, First District; George P. Rott, incumbent, County Judge, Second District;
Peter C. Epp, Assessor; Philip G.
Deuser, incumbent, Treasurer; Edward W. Terry, incumbent, Public Administrator; Dr. John H. Sutter, Coroner; Roy Jablonsky, incumbent, Surveyor (ex-officio Highway Engineer); and Holman Johnson, Constable of Central Township.

The recommended candidates, league officers announced, have pledged themselves to efficient and honest government and strict law enforcement.

The charge is made, in the league's circular to voters, that large numbers of non-resident gunmen and election crooks were registered in the county last spring, and that they are hoarding that a fund of $100,000 will be available to defeat Judge Mulloy. The circular suggests that the $70,000 stolen in the holdups of a University City bank and an East St. Louis bank messenger last month may be a part of this fund.

PRINT PAPER FROM HARDWOOD

U. S. Government Reports Successful Tests in Laboratory.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2. — The possibility of the use of American hardwoods for the production of newsprint is being investigated by the United States Forest Products laboratory of the forest service at Madison, Wis., following an extensive experimentation with New Zealand hardwoods for this use.

The experiment with the New Zealand hardwoods, conducted at the request of the British Government of that British dominion, it was announced by the Department of Agriculture, has resulted successfully. It was undertaken in the belief that the results might be applicable to American hardwoods.
After the experimental work which lasted a year, newsprint paper equal to American quality standards has been made from the New Zealand wood. The final test of the operation was recently made with the production of several tons of newsprint and rotogravure papers at two Wisconsin mills and the running of the newsprint paper over the presses of a daily newspaper.

"Goodbye All" Purports to Be From Miss Mackay and Hinchliffe.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Aug. 2. — A bottle washed ashore near Flint, North

Wales, Tuesday contained a note on which was written, "goodbye all."
Beneath were signed the names of Elsie Mackay and Capt. Hinch-liffe, and beneath the words
"down in fog and storm."

HERRIOT TO VISIT GERMAN PRESS MEETING IN COLOGNE

French Minister Expected to Urge Closer Relations Between Scientists of Both Nations.

PARIS, Aug. 2.—Minister of Public Instruction Herriot has gone to Cologne, Germany, to visit the press exposition and the trip is regarded here as carrying out the French policy of conciliation toward Germany. Herriot established this policy when he became Premier in 1924 and Foreign Minister Briand pushed it along at Locarno. It is understood Herriot will urge closer relations between French and German intellectuals. President Doumergue is at Rambouillet and French officialdom is almost entirely absent from Paris. Andrew Tardieu, Minister of Public Works, has gone to the Vosges for a rest. Louis Loucheur, Minister of Labor, is touring the country in preparation for a building campaign of houses of moderate rental.

Finland Wins 1500 Meters and Sweden Takes Javelin Throw

By the Associated Press.

OLYMPIC STADIUM, AMSTERDAM, Aug. 2.—American athletes

today experienced the most disastrous day of the Olympic track and field competition thus far when they were unable to gain a single championship of the four decided.

The 1500-meter running crown went to Harry Larva of Finland with the only American who qualified for the final, Ray Conger, no better than tenth; the running hop, step and jump title to Mikio Oda of Japan with Levi Casey, United States, second; the 100-meter race for women to Frieda Radke of Germany with

Florence Macdonald of Boston, lone

American survivor, sixth; while all four of the United States javelin throwers were eliminated under a burst of remarkable performances by foreign stars.

Barburt Wins Two Heats.

The one ray of sunshine came in the 400-meter trials in which

Ray Barburt, former Syracuse quarter-mile ace, won both his trial heats and as a result became a joint favorite with the German,

Joachim Buchner, who also made sensational time, for the chamionship tomorrow.

Olympic championship in the javelin throw went to E. H. Lundquist of Sweden who replaced as champion Jonni Myrta of Finland.

Herman Phillips of the Illinois

A. C. like Barburt, won both of his heats today and will share with the erstwhile Syracuse football player the assignment of carrying

Uncle Sam's colors against the best throwers in the rest of the world tomorrow. The other two American representatives, Joe

Tierney and Eull Snider were eliminated in their second trial heats.

Three of the four championships were won with record-breaking performances. Larva clocked 2-5 seconds off Paavo Nurmi's Olympic record for 1500 meters in winning three minutes 53-1-5 seconds.

Lundquist beat the Olympic javelin throw mark by 2 feet 8 1/2 inches with his heave of 218 feet 6 1/2 inches and Frau Radke out more than seven seconds off her own world's record for 300 meters when she traveled the distance in the sensational time of 2 minutes 16 seconds, while all six point-winners finished under the former mark.

Kinchinunga Wins English Race

By the Associated Press.

GOODWOOD, England, Aug. 2.

J. H. Sutton's Kinchinunga, by

Juggernaut, from Maid of the Mountains, won the Goodwood Cup

today.

M. J. Wittouck's Bois Josselyn

was second and the Aga Khan's

Dark Japan was third. Seven ran.

Kinchinunga won by half a length and there was a full length between second and third. The beating was 4 to 1, 7 to 1 and 8 to

1. The stakes were £1000 with extras and the distance two miles and five furlongs.

First Round Results.

Frank Evernizzi, Baltimore, defeated Thomas McCrattan, Buffalo, 5 and 4.

Carl Kauffmann, Pittsburgh, de-fated Joe Kurek, Cleveland, 5 and

Leo Doyle, Philadelphia, won the longest match of the day, beating

John R. Miller of Washington on the twenty-sixth hole. On the last hole, Miller missed his drive and brassie shot but still scored a 5.

Boyle, on the edge of the green in

2, ran up dead for his par 4 "o win."

Second Round Results.

Frank Evernizzi, Baltimore, de-

fated Thomas McCrattan, Buffa-

MISS GLADMAN IS HAILED AS LIKELY SUCCESSOR TO HELEN WILLS

SENSATIONAL PLAY ADVANCES HER TO FINAL AT SEABRIGHT

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SEABRIGHT, N. J., Aug. 2.—Midge Gladman's surprising showing in the women's singles division of the invitation tournament here of the Seabright bowlers has brought the so-called California "mite" not only to the final round of the series, but also to the very first rank of women players, grouped as they are behind the invincible Helen Wills.

The national girls' champion will battle Helen Jacobs of Santa Barbara, Cal., a member of this year's Wightman cup team, in the finals Saturday afternoon. Miss Gladman, who is almost 19 years old, disposed of Mrs. Charlotte Hosmer Chapin in convincing fashion in the semifinals, while Miss Jacobs was eliminating Edith Gross, another of the brilliant and hard-hitting girl players the Golden State has sent East this season.

Speedier Than Helen. So outstanding has been the play of this Gladman youngster, that serious thought is being given to her as a possible successor to Helen Wills in the not so distant future when time will have slowed the pace of ball and speed of foot of the present champion. In fact it is her great activity, plus a good backhand and an uncanny placement ability that makes the present girls' champion the dangerous contender she is showing herself to be in the ranks of women players.

Her surprising activity is marked also by seeming indefatigability. For example, after having played hard and fast tennis to defeat Mrs. Chapin at 3:30 yesterday afternoon, this young California star half an hour later was battling through a tough doubles match with her erstwhile adversary against Evelyn Parsons and Virginia Riedel. In this match, a San Francisco-Dedham combination, and still a little while later she jumped into a mixed doubles match paired with Louis Thalheimer. And most surprising of all, she was on the winning side in each.

Premier Sends Williams Second Congratulations

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 2.—ERIC WILLIAMS, Canadian schoolboy winner of the Olympic 100-meter and 200-meter dashes has been congratulated a second time by Premier Mackenzie King. Following Williams' second triumph in the 200 meters yesterday, the Prime Minister sent him the following cable: "Glad again to congratulate you on the honor you have brought to Canada through your splendid victory 200 meters." "W. L. Mackenzie King."

Arlington, 'in Red,' May Abandon Fall Race Meet

By the Associated Press. CHICAGO, Aug. 2.—Arlington Park, Chicago's ultra-fashionable race track which was enlarged and beautified at a cost of nearly $4,000,000 last year, may be forced to cancel its fall meeting because of a financial deficit incurred in the 21-day racing program.

Despite the fact that the huge plant, owned and operated by the American Jockey Club, received a commission of almost $2,000,000 from the pari-mutuel machines, it went "into the red" by $33,933, the financial statement reveals.

Members of the board of governors, headed by Maj. Frederic McLaughlin, Chicago coffee magnate, have been negotiating with a group of prominent Chicago business men, seeking to have them lease the track for the fall meeting.

CENTRALIA GOLFERS TO HOLD TOURNAMENT

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CENTRALIA, Ill., Aug. 2.—

Chairman Jesse W. Turnbow of the Golf Events Committee of Meadow Woods Country Club here, has called for a 54-hole elimination tournament to decide upon the local team to compete in the annual tournament of the South Central Illinois Golf Association, at Centralia, Aug. 16.

Say Au Revoir to Not Goodbye

THE doughty and the cultured Gene. We notice he has retired; To fight again the ex-Maine. Declares he can't be hired. His title he defended twice. A tidy fortune earning. And having gathered in the price. He'll now go in for learning.

The champs have tried this thing before. The days of Mr. Tunney; But always they've come back for more.

When tempted by the money. But Gene you know's a superman. By high ideal inspired. And so may carry out his plan. To always stay retired.

While there's no scrapping of renown. Who with the champion's rated. These be a scramble for the crown. So recently vacated. And so 'twould be the proper thing.

For fighters true and loyal. To go on mass into a ring. And fight a battle royal.

So long, old top, take care yourself. Wherever you may wander. And in one place, your hard earned pelf. Be careful not to squander. You've hitched your wagon to a star.

That leads to heights far greater. And so farewell, or, au revoir. Perhaps we'll see you later.

Something in Slogans? "Hoover or Hove?" is the slogan coined by Senator Moses. To which the logical comeback is "Smith or Starvation."

Cannon Falls, where President Coolidge spoke Sunday, is the place where they go to shoot the rapids, we take it.

John H. Garrison of Stafford County, Va., is 106 years old and has been using tobacco for 96 years. Had he started using a little sooner there's no telling how old he'd be by this time.

Fair Enough. "Corn Belt Leader Rakes Iowa Governor." In lieu of hoeing the corn he rakes the Governor.

"250 Pickets Held. Militia Called in Textile Strike." What you might call breaking through the first line of defence.

The man on the sand says beef is higher now than it has ever been since the cow jumped over the moon. Put that in your full dinner pail.

Vote Yes. As a bird's-eye view of the airport reveals nobody who is opposed to it, we take it that everybody is for it.

There is no truth in the rumor that Tex Rickard is going to retire. In spite of a bad blowout Tex managed to hobble in on the rim.

Cochet Is World's Ranking Tennis Player Today; Coen A Sensation, Tilden Writes

By William T. Tilden

PARIS, Aug. 2.—The Davis cup team of the United States has closed its European tour and sailed for home. It has been a trip of near success rather than actual achievement, but one that has taught us many things. We must face the fact that France is still the outstanding tennis nation in the world and that her great team of the four Musketeers, La Coste, Cochet, Brugnon and Borotra are still champions.

The tennis public of France is growing in size, knowledge of the game and they are still the same friendly, generous people toward visiting stars.

Our young players have played well in most cases and have profited by experience here.

There is no doubt that Cochet today is the ranking player in the world. He has divided matches with Lacoste, but has beaten me, while I divided with Lacoste.

Cochet has definitely improved this year. His brilliancy is just as remarkable while his periods of wildness are much fewer and his good periods are sustained much longer. He has increased power and effectiveness of his ground strokes.

Lacoste is about the same player as last year, a shade less machine-like, but also a shade more severe.

Hennessey Fraised. John Hennessey played well except for sudden collapse against Cochet. His game has gained in punch, but his lasting ability has not seemed quite so good in Europe as in the United States. He has added new chop strokes to his game and shows much greater versatility than formerly.

George Lott has played his usual game, neither better or worse. He is far better on the clay court than on the grass. He has gained in experience and I believe this trip will show benefits more after his return to his own country.

Frank Hunter reached new heights at the French championships against Cochet and at international championship against Borotra, but he has had periods of slump between, and following the latter. He is a far more versatile player than ever before, but a little of the crushing power is lacking.

Wilbur F. Coen Jr. has had a most successful trip and has improved steadily. He was a sensation at the Queen's Club in London and at Wimbledon, and since coming to France has done splendidly in practice with the team. His volleying and overhead are decided.

M'Larnin Choice In Bout Tonight Against Loayza

By the Associated Press. DETROIT, Aug. 2.—Jimmy M'Larnin, Pacific Coast lightweight, and Stanislaus Loayza, Chile's contribution to the 135-pound rank, meet in a ten-round boxing contest tonight that may determine Sammy Mandell's next championship opponent.

M'Larnin, whose campaign for a return shot at the title was initiated with a one-round knockout of Phil McGraw, has been established a slight favorite. However, there are plenty of fans who like the chances of the slant-eyed South American who recently defeated Bruce Flowers, the New Rochelle Negro. Loayza also beat McGraw. In point of aggressiveness they shape up about even.

Due to reported circulation of counterfeit tickets, attaches of the Internal Revenue Collector's office are to be stationed at the gates to inspect all pasteboards as they are presented. A detail of 300 police also has been assigned to the arena to prevent possible disturbances arising out of the confusion over tickets.

Escape Hay Fever!

Healthy nose: free, clear breathing; no sneezing; no sniffing—Hayfever gone forever!

Is that worth a dollar or two? Sinusept is guaranteed to produce those results, or money back. Positively cures itching, sneezing, and sniffing. Dries watery, itchy eyes. Soothes and clears nasal passages.

SINUSEPTIC FOR THE NOSE

Highly recommended by thousands of doctors everywhere for use in all cases of catarrh. Sinuseptic washes away the drainage from sinuses and relieves the nasal cavity of toxic secretions.

Golfers Accept Challenge.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. POPLAR BLUFF, Mo., Aug. 2.—After defeating the West Plains Country Club golf team here Monday, the Poplar Bluff club today accepted a challenge from the Charleston club for an inter-city tournament to be played at the local links next Sunday. Twelve players will come here, according to F. W. Price, chairman of the greens committee. The Poplar Bluffs defeated West Plains by only two points.

Reynolds Throws Turner.

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 2.—John Reynolds, Cedar Rapids, Ia., champion wrestling title, defeated Joe Turner of Washington, D. C., here last night in two out of three falls in what was billed as a title match.

This New Pierce-Arrow at $2475

is a record value in fine motor cars—the lowest price in Pierce-Arrow history!

With the new Club Brougham, by Pierce-Arrow, offered at the almost unbelievable figure of $2475, this question naturally asserts itself:

"Is this car of the same Pierce-Arrow line which won such wide acclaim for its beauty—for its perfection of equipment—at the most recent salons?"

The answer is, unequivocally, Yes! It is the same Pierce-Arrow, down to the last fine detail. It is the very car which was a breath-taking value at a much higher price.

A beautiful, ultra-modern enclosed Pierce-Arrow, seating five passengers. With two-door beauty and four-door accessibility. With rare handling ease and riding comfort, magic getaway and speed without stint.

The car is offered in a variety of choice color combinations. Its interior is a modern example of fine car upholstery and fittings.

You can own this new Pierce-Arrow with little if any cash outlay. The trade-in value of your present car may easily cover the initial payment.

Not only that, but you will discover that Pierce-Arrow means a very minimum of expense in upkeep. Not to mention the priceless pride of ownership that goes naturally with the name and the performance.

Here are the New Low Prices

Note that the reductions are as great as $600 on some models—resulting in prices lower than ever before known to cars of Pierce-Arrow manufacture!

Models:	Former Price	Today's Price	Amount of Reduction
7-Passenger Enclosed Drive Limousine	$3550	$2950	$600
7-Passenger Sedan	3450	2850	600
Convertible Coupe	3450	2950	500
4-Passenger Coupe	3450	2950	500
5-Passenger Sedan	3350	2750	600
2-Passenger Coupe	3350	2750	600
4-Passenger Touring	3100	2700	400
Runabout	2900	2600	300
5-Passenger Club Brougham	2750	2475	275

(Prices quoted are f.o.b. Buffalo)

Your present car will be accepted at fairly appraised value. This will apply against down and monthly payments which make Pierce-Arrow ownership surprisingly easy.

NEW LINER ST. LOUIS LAUNCHED IN BREMEN

Mrs. Carl F. G. Meyer Christened the ship. Vessel—30 Persons From Here Present.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BREMEN, Germany, Aug. 2.—The new Hamburg-American Line St. Louis was launched today at the Vegesack shipyards near Bremen by between 30 and 40 persons, members of the ship party of the Air Board of St. Louis, participating in the ceremony.

Mrs. Carl F. G. Meyer of St. Louis christened the ship. The ceremonies, the American liners were entertained at dinner by officers of the ship company. Meyer and W. B. Welschberger, president of St. Louis Chamber of Commerce, were leaders of the St. Louis party.

From Dr. Georg Ahrens, German Consul in St. Louis, Meyer received a congratulatory telegram: "The conviction that the Spirit of St. Louis will be the true guardian of the beautiful ship which bears the name of this good city and all friends sincere greetings and good wishes."

The St. Louis will be completed within four months and will make its maiden voyage from Hamburg to New York, on Dec. 6. Its main salon will hang an impressionistic painting of the river of St. Louis by Frank Nuders, St. Louis artist. The picture is being made, and when finished will be presented to the ship by a group of St. Louis tributers, headed by Edward Faust. An oil painting of the recently presented to the city of St. Louis.

The liner will be of the modern type, 541 feet long, 73 feet wide, with a tonnage of 16,000 tons and a speed of 16 knots. It has accommodations for 420 passengers, 277 tourist third cabin and 100 first-class passengers.

The motive power of the St. Louis will consist of four speed two-cycle, six-cylinder engines with 12,500 horsepower.

After the maiden voyage, the ship will sail from New York to Hamburg, Dec. 27, returning to New York to depart Jan. 11, 1929, for a Mediterranean cruise.

Not in years have so many people been so interested in the launch of a new ship. The St. Louis is a ship of the future.

and to extend to Cowden. Baxter was required to obtain 78 deeds of right-of-way from farmers to insure the building of the road by the State.
The State Highway Department opened bids on this road several weeks ago, but at that time not all the right-of-way had been obtained. The contract is expected to be awarded within a few days, and work to be under way for grading within two weeks, so as to complete the road before winter.

Three Salvation Army workers narrowly escaped death when the truck in which they were riding was struck by Missouri Pacific passenger train No. 8, south of Ward 36 miles east of here yesterday afternoon. Two of the men, Neal Lassiter and Lawrence Moseley, were brought to Missouri Pacific Hospital here suffering from slight injuries. The third, Cecil Thornton, driver of the car, returned to army headquarters after treatment

M'CRAWLEY QUESTIONS WILSON ON DRY STAND

Asks Rival in Gubernatorial Race if He Favors Repeal of State Law.

By the Associated Press.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Aug. 2.—Asserting that campaign managers for his opponent, Francis M. Wilson, had presented Wilson to the dry districts as a bone dry and to the wet regions as a dripping wet, A. L. McCrawley, candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor, made public here yesterday a telegram, which he had sent to Wilson propounding seven questions which he asked the Platt City man to answer publicly. The questions indeed the following:

"Do you favor the repeal of the Missouri bone-dry law?"

"If elected Governor of Missouri is it your purpose as intimated by your supporters to parole or pardon violators of the law now existing, penitentiary and jail sentences?"

"Were you the candidate of the wets for President Pro tem. of the Senate in 1913 and did they elect you?"

"Did you explain your so-called dry vote on the county unit, law that year by stating that you represented a dry constituency, though personally wet, and voted their sentiments, not yours?"

26 Republicans and 20 Democrats Are Seeking Nine Nominations at Primary Election Next Tuesday

Eight Judges in Campaign for Re-election, Ittner Having Been Denied Bar Association Indorsement and Mix Just Getting Under the Wire.

AMONG the 26 Republicans seeking the nine nominations for Circuit Judges in next Tuesday's primary, the Post-Dispatch has shown four to be disqualified at this time by their records for the office they seek. They are:

Circuit Judge Anthony F. Ittner—Because of his handling of the slot machine injunction suit, in connection with which a $10,000 escrow fund was secretly posted to guarantee a $2000 payment contingent on his decision; the disposition of the $8000 balance was not made known. Because of his acceptance of the defaulting bondsman, Sam Arky, on bonds, and his leaving of bonds signed in blank for Arky's use when himself out of the city, a practice for which the Bar Association censured him.

Circuit Judge George E. Mix—Because he accepted Circuit Attorney Siderer's recommendation for settlement of the Rutherford murder case by payment of a $500 fine, and said afterward that he was merely "giving Siderer rope to hang himself." The law requires the Judge to fix the penalty in accepting pleas of guilt.

Police Judge Harry P. Rosecan—Because he was listed in the books of "Dinty" Colbeck's taxi-cab Co. as having accepted free service in the company's taxis, while he was on the bench charged with the duty of passing on traffic cases.

A. Samuel Bender—Because he devised and engineered the infamous settlement of the Rutherford murder case by payment of a $500 fine, and represented that the witnesses in the case could not be found, when in fact they were readily available.

The Circuit Judges to be nominated are to be elected in a remarkable transaction which hinges upon Judge Ittner's action of March 31.

It showed that on March 25, six days before the granting of the injunction, $10,000 was placed in escrow by Jacob Katz and Edgar V. Maher with the Liberty Central Trust Co. Katz, a resident of Chicago, represented the slot machine interests. Maher, a St. Louis lawyer, was not an attorney of record in the slot machine case.

The escrow agreement, placed in the hands of Alex Lewis, an employee of the trust company, provided that, "when an injunction is granted in the Circuit Court pertaining to the operation of minting machines," Lewis should pay Maher $2000, and should return the balance of $8000 to Katz in Maher's presence. "In the event an injunction is not granted by April 10, 1926," the agreement provided, "Maher deposited the $10,000 to Katz on demand."

On April 1, the day after Judge Ittner granted the injunction, Katz and Maher called on Lewis, who paid Maher $2000 and returned $8000 to Katz, according to the agreement. Maher deposited the $2000 to his account at the Liberty Central. Katz took his $8000 in the form of a cashier's check, which he cashed at the Franklin Bank.

It happened that Maher was one of the counsel in the Rutherford murder case, the monetary settlement of which caused a grand jury inquiry. As part of that inquiry, the bank accounts of Maher and others were examined by the grand jury.

When Maher's $2000 deposit was noted, Lewis, when summoned by the grand jury, was required to explain the matter, and thus the Katz-Maher deal, hinging upon Judge Ittner's action, became known.

An explanation was sought of the payment of $2000 to Maher, since he was not an attorney of record in the case. Maher would say only that he had a business deal with Katz, the details of which were a matter of legal confidence.

What Became of $8000?

An even more important question was, what was done with the $8000 returned to Katz? And why was it necessary to place $10,000 in escrow, when Maher, in any case, was to receive only $2000?

These questions were not answered. Efforts to get a statement from Katz were unsuccessful.

Judge Ittner said that he knew nothing about the Katz-Maher deal and that he did not know Katz, though he knew Maher. He said he granted a temporary injunction because of the company's plea that its machines were not gambling devices, and that the terms of the injunction would not have protected any machine which was in fact a gambling device. He said he allowed about the usual time interval, 20 days, before the hearing, but that if he had known there would be "such a stink" about the matter, he might have set the hearing sooner. He did not summon Katz or Maher into court for explanation of their $10,000 escrow fund, hinging on his decision.

Censured for Bond Handling.

It was Judge Ittner who accepted the greater part of the bail bonds of Sam Arky, defaulting professional bondsman. "Arky is my friend," he said when questioned, and he admitted that he had business relations with Arky, but refused to tell what these relations were. Bonds signed by Judge Ittner were used by Arky at a time when the Judge was out of the city, indicating that the

WHAT PRICE MURDER?
Cartoon published in the Post-Dispatch, May 22, 1926, shortly after Judge Mix had assessed a $500 fine in the Rutherford murder case.

Cartoon published in the Post-Dispatch, Jan. 11, 1927, after publication of the fact that the names of Police Judge Harry Rosecan and Assistant City Counselor Alvin F. Hackman appeared on the "free list" of the defunct Canary Taxi Co., which was dominated by "Dinty" Colbeck, Egan gang leader, now in prison for mail robbery.

bonds, signed in blank, had been left with or for Arky, to be used at his convenience. This meant that the Judge delegated his functions to Arky, who could issue the bonds to anyone whom he might wish to get out of custody.

The St. Louis Bar Association investigated this matter through its grievance committee, and found Judge Ittner's action "subject to grave criticism and censure." Because there was no evidence of any wrongful motive, the committee said, it did not feel justified in recommending impeachment proceedings against Judge Ittner.

Arky was debarred from signing bonds in the courts here, after the State had obtained judgments on forfeitures of $4000 against him, and could find no property on which to levy. The Missouri Association for Criminal Justice, in its report on court abuses, spoke of Arky's case as "perhaps the most serious case of a professional bondsman being permitted to ply his trade in spite of definite disqualifications." Although Arky had $30,000 in bond forfeitures outstanding on Sept. 1, 1925, he was surety on $50,000 of bonds then, of which Judge Ittner had approved $25,000 worth.

Judge Mix's Responsibility in $500 Rutherford Murder Fine.

JUDGE MIX shares with Circuit Attorney Siderer the official responsibility for the settlement of the Rutherford murder case by payment of a $500 fine. Details of the Rutherford case were told in yesterday's Post-Dispatch, as a part of Siderer's official record.

Rutherford, a resident of Arkansas, in drunken wantonness, shot and killed a belboy in the Majestic Hotel. Siderer and A. Samuel Bender, now a candidate for Circuit Judge, who was named as special prosecutor in the case, but in fact was acting merely to collect money damages, agreed to recommend that Rutherford be permitted to plead guilty and pay a $500 fine. When the proposal was outlined to Judge Frey, he refused to consent to it, and he warned Judge Mix against accepting it.

But Judge Mix, when a change of venue was taken to him, accepted the recommendation of Siderer, with whom he was unfriendly. When asked by a Post-Dispatch reporter afterward for an explanation, he said:

"Siderer brought into my court a nice piece of rope for his own neck. Why should I have warned him? I knew his proposal to release Rutherford was rotten. I know there would be a roar from the newspapers. I realized that the people would resent it."

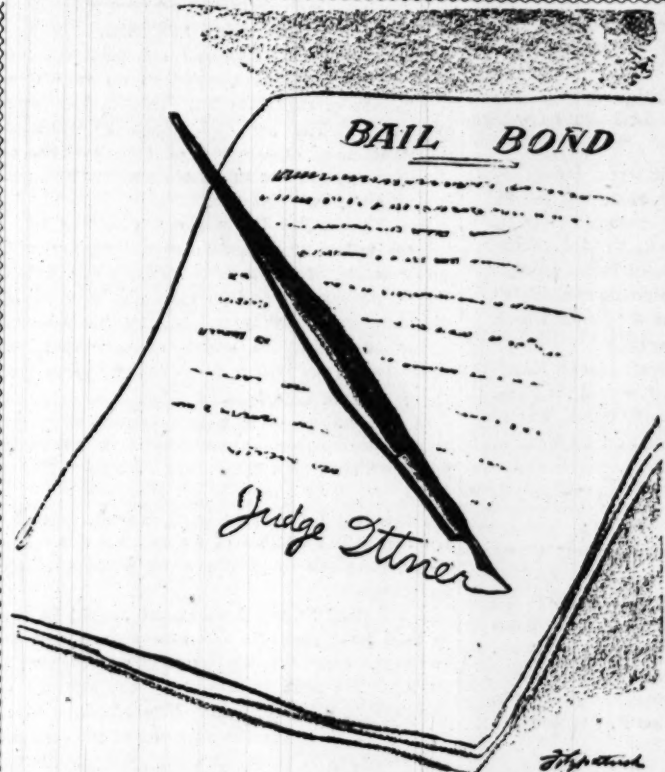

Impachment Demanded.

This explanation placed Judge Mix in the light of serving a personal grudge at the expense of justice. Mix therefore shifted to the assertion that the Circuit Attorney's recommendation was mandatory upon him, and he had no option but to approve it. Legal authorities disagreed with Judge Mix on this matter. The Revised Statutes of Missouri in section 4048, state that "In all cases of judgment by confession, the Court shall assess and declare the punishment and render judgment accordingly."

The Post-Dispatch, in an editorial at the time, referred to Judge Mix's statement as a confession of his unfitness for the bench. "Judge Mix confesses," it said, "that on account of his own enmity to Siderer, he carried out an agreement which he denounces as rotten. He helped to defeat justice in order to 'get Siderer.'"

The Post-Dispatch urged that the State Legislature should impeach Judge Mix and place him on trial for removal from the bench, as provided by the constitution of Missouri. The Legislature was not then in session (May, 1926) and no action was taken on this demand.

Before his election to the Circuit bench, Mix was a Police Judge. The Safety Council censured him in 1922 for leniency toward traffic law violators.

AND THE JUDGE 100 MILES AWAY!
Cartoon published in the Post-Dispatch, Feb. 9, 1927, when it disclosed that Sam Arky, defaulting professional bondsman, was in possession of blank bail bonds signed by Judge Ittner and used by Arky in the jurist's absence from the city.

In the personal injury case of Wair vs. American Car & Foundry Co., tried in Judge Mix's court, Dr. Kinder, known about the Courtroom as "Permanent Injuries" Kinder, was a witness for the plaintiff. In cross-examining him, defense lawyers asked about the frequency of his appearances in court, and his charges for testifying. Judge Mix interrupted, saying that a physician had as good a right to charge for his services as a lawyer. He remarked substantially the same remark three times.

The St. Louis Court of Appeals, passing later on the case, censured Judge Mix's comment as "nothing less than placing the stamp of judicial approval on Dr. Kinder's testimony." As to these and other later comments, the Court of Appeals said, "We cannot avoid the conclusion that the comments of the Court tended to destroy the poise of the scales of justice. The trial Judge should never display any feeling for or against any party litigant." The verdict in the plaintiff's favor was reversed and remanded by the Appellate Court.

Judge Rosecan's Name on "Free List" of Gangster's Taxi Co.

POLICE JUDGE ROSECAN, who was appointed by Mayor Miller in 1925, has had to deal chiefly with violations of the traffic laws by drivers of all classes, including taxicab drivers.

The Canary Taxicab Co., controlled by "Dinty" Colbeck, Egan gang leader, became bankrupt after Colbeck was sent to Federal prison for mail robbery. Jan. 3, 1927, the receiver for the Canary Taxicab Co. applied to the Circuit Court for permission to use Judge Rosecan for $74.20, covering 61 taxi rides which were charged to the company's books as "taxis." The receiver was informed that the accounts were kept for the sake of the record and were not intended for collection, but he held that as the company was bankrupt at the time, it had no business to be giving free service to anyone. A similar claim for $148 was made against Alvin F. Hackman, Assistant City Counselor, in charge of prosecutions in Rosecan's court.

Rosecan and Hackman said they rode in Canary taxis, but that they paid their bills monthly. They said they would try to find the receipts for these payments. The company's books showed Judge Rosecan as having used its cabs in eight consecutive months, beginning in November, 1925, up to the time when it went into a receivership.

The Post-Dispatch published an editorial suggesting that the Mayor should remove both Rosecan and Hackman. It printed a cartoon showing a taxi driver before a Police Judge saying: "You go free in my taxi, Judge." Jan. 11, more than a week after the first publication of the matter, a cartoon was printed showing the Police Judge and his prosecutor "Still looking for those receipts." The receipts were never shown.

In the latter part of the same month, Alderman Neu complained of Judge Rosecan's practice of giving traffic cases precedence over the confined docket. He charged also that "fixers" delayed the opening of court. Judge Rosecan denied that there was any "fixing" of cases in his court, and he met the other criticism by changing the order of docket procedure.

At a meeting of the Executive Committee of the St. Louis Safety Council, May 18 last, Oliver T. Remmers, chairman of the Republican City Committee, charged that traffic cases were being "fixed" by politicians in Judge Rosecan's Court. This charge followed a discussion of the increase, apparent then and since, of automobile accidents in 1928 over the 1927 record. The increase was declared to be due to less strict enforcement of traffic laws. Remmers, after the meeting, refused to elaborate his charges. He said that he had no proof, but that he believed that the system was being established in the State Government.

He has given special attention in his speeches to the unsatisfactory condition of bank inspection in the State, attributing the cause

Eight Candidates Are in Field For Nominations for Governor

Records of Five Republicans and Three Democrats—Caulfield and Wilson Have Organization Support in Their Parties.

RECORDS of the candidates in both parties for the nomination for Governor, subject to next Tuesday's primary, follow:

REPUBLICANS

HENRY S. CAULFIELD is 54 years old and a native of St. Louis. He was educated in the public schools and St. Charles College and is a law graduate of Washington University.

He has held a number of public offices, the duties of which he administered in a manner which provoked no public criticism. He served one term in Congress, retiring from office in 1906. He was appointed Excise Commissioner by the late Gov. Hadley in 1909, serving a little more than a year, when Hadley appointed him a Judge of the St. Louis Court of Appeals to succeed Judge Goode, resigned. He was elected the following year to fill the unexpired term of Judge Goode, which ended in 1913, and did not seek re-election.

Caulfield served as counsel of the Board of Freeholders, which framed the present Charter of St. Louis, and was City Counselor during two of Mayor Kiel's terms of office. He was tendered the same position by Mayor Miller, but refused it. He was chairman of the Board of Freeholders which was chosen to prepare a plan of annexation of St. Louis County by the City.

Between times of holding public office Caulfield has engaged in the private practice of law in St. Louis. Brought out by Koeln.

The Caulfield candidacy was launched by City Collector Koeln of St. Louis, who proposed him after former Congressman Cleveland A. Newton refused to become a candidate. Koeln caused a meeting of the St. Louis City Committee and its Advisory Finance Committee to be held, and at this meeting Caulfield was indorsed.

This resulted in the charge that Caulfield was a boss-controlled candidate, and that if elected Governor, Koeln, through him, would extend his influence to a control of State administrative affairs.

William R. Schneider, one of his opponents, has made vigorous use of this argument. He has criticized Koeln's management of the office of City Collector, and charged that Koeln, by retaining fees for the collection of the State income tax, has violated a provision of the Constitution limiting the salaries of public officials to a fixed amount. Schneider charged Koeln improperly had retained fees amounting to $100,000 during the period he had held office.

He also said in speeches that Koeln forced employees of his office to contribute a specified percentage of their salaries to him.

From this Schneider argued that Koeln through his support of Caulfield was attempting to extend his "system" to the State government.

Koeln was exonerated by a St. Louis grand jury and an opinion of the Attorney-General of retaining fees in excess of the legal limit, and it was explained that employees voluntarily contributed to a fund used for the purchase of flowers for funerals of employees and their relatives, and for political purposes.

In public speeches Caulfield has said that his long record of public office holding is a guarantee that he is free from influence of any kind in his official work. He has said that if elected Governor he would seek the counsel of informed persons but that he would make his own decisions, free from dictation from any source.

Opposes Eighteenth Amendment.

Caulfield has not taken a vigorous position on the prohibition question, but has issued a statement which classifies him as opposed to the eighteenth amendment.

"I have never considered national prohibition as the best means to obtain temperance," he said. "I have thought that strict regulation, accompanied by education toward temperance, combined with local option, was the best remedy for the ills of intemperance. I have a record for law enforcement of which I am proud."

Caulfield in his campaign has pledged that if elected his object would be to conduct State affairs efficiently and economically. He has approved the establishment of a budget system and the abolition of useless jobs and bureaus. He has cited the St. Louis city system of finance, with central purchasing of supplies, as efficient, and has expressed the belief that a similar system should be established in the State Government.

He has given special attention in his speeches to the unsatisfactory condition of bank inspection in the State, attributing the cause of many bank failures to inadequate State supervision. He advocated increasing the number of bank examiners to provide more frequent examinations, pointing out that such increase would not add to the expense of the State Government, the banks paying the cost of inspections.

Generally speaking, Caulfield has the support of the St. Louis Republican organization, his campaign literature stating that 41 of the 56 members of the City Committee have indorsed him. He also has extensive organization support in Kansas City, and the followers of Gov. Hyde in rural Missouri are advocating his nomination.

Lieut.-Gov. Bennett.

On Dry Platform.

LEUTENANT-GOVERNOR PHIL A. BENNETT of Springfield is 47 years old. Born in Dallas County, Missouri, he was educated in the public schools and in the Springfield Normal School and Business College.

Personally and officially dry, his appeal for votes principally has been in the dry counties of the State, though, as a practical politician, he has not neglected the St. Louis and has formed alliances here with Republicans who are opposing domination of St. Louis politics by Collector Koeln, chief supporter of Henry S. Caulfield for the nomination for Governor.

Bennett is known as a regular in Republican politics. He served as chairman of the Dallas County Republican Committee eight years, as a member of the Republican State Committee two years, and was chairman of the Sixteenth District Republican Congressional Committee two years. He was elected a member of the State Senate in 1926 and at the conclusion of his term in 1928 was elected Lieutenant-Governor.

His record as Senator and Lieutenant-Governor was good. On party political matters he stood with the party organization, but on questions having no political connections he was known as an independent thinker.

Bennett taught school in Dallas County two years after completing his studies and then was publisher of a newspaper for 17 years. He also was a banker and was interested in several other business enterprises. It was said he was the first to take a cylinder press, a linotype, a picture show and an automobile into Dallas County.

Record in Legislature.

If the Legislature Bennett was an earnest advocate of good roads legislation, and was an influential force in obtaining the passage of the present State highway law.

After the $60,000,000 bond issue was voted in 1926 Bennett made an extensive tour of Eastern and Northern states studying their State highway systems, and thus was equipped with much valuable information for use in 1927 when the law creating the Missouri Highway Department was under consideration. He has continued his interest in roads, having supported measures to increase the mileage of improved local roads and being an advocate of early completion of the State road system.

As a State Senator he was a stand-by of Gov. Hyde and supported the Hyde program for consolidation of State departments. During the Baker administration he was given scant attention by the Governor, but notwithstanding that he kept regular on administration measures.

He supported the election reform measures of the Hyde administration, the bill to give women equal representation with men on political party committees and voted for the State prohibition enforcement act.

In 1922 Bennett was the Republican nominee for Congress in the Sixteenth District, a Democratic district, and was defeated by Congressman Eulley by a majority of 3800.

Bennett has made an active campaign of the State, speaking once or more daily for several months. He is credited with a strong following in the Ozark region where he has resided all of his life. He is moved from Buffalo, Dallas County, four years ago, becoming president of the Bankers' Loan and Investment Co., and of the Commercial Savings and Loan Co. Several months ago he became St. Louis representative of the Northwestern Terminal Co., an Eastern corporation, and is in St. Louis

THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles; that it will always fight for progress or reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

The name and address of the author must accompany every contribution, but on request will not be published. Letters not exceeding 200 words will receive preference.

Judge Rosenfeld's Candidacy.

WE HAVE had eight years of Republican administration of the State Government. St. Louis is completely at the mercy of Republican office holders. Influential, sincere, devoted Democrats, including Gov. F. D. Gardner, Sam W. Fordyce, former Senator Xenophon F. Willner, Judge Daniel G. Taylor, Senator Michael Kinney, Marion E. Early, Fred G. Zelbig and many others, resolved to correct this situation fraught with danger to the administration of law, justice and the business of the people. As a start they induced Judge Samuel Rosenfeld—a former Circuit Judge, one of the authors of the City Charter, a soldier and an officer, an appointee of President Woodrow Wilson to the District Board of Appeal, a man of highest qualifications, character, ability and popularity with both Democrats and Republicans in St. Louis, having been elected to the Charter Commission as nominee of both parties—to become a candidate for Lieutenant-Governor. At great sacrifice to himself, he consented and is making an active campaign. His nomination in August primary would put St. Louis on the ticket, and his election would give St. Louis and the State a capable and square-dealing presiding officer of the Senate. In a convention he would be elected and forced to serve. Democrats in primary have the same power and should exercise it.

I write you this letter with the State's interest in mind and not as a partisan and ask your encouragement, well knowing the indifferent attitude of the Post-Dispatch, and also its concern for the public interest.

Washington, Mo. J. H. DICKBRADER.

That Fake K. of C. Oath.

TO THE Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
I Sunday's Post-Dispatch on "Religious Bigotry at Work." I am a Baptist and a Mason and for Gov. Smith, and for any sect, party or any other organization claiming to be even half way decent or respectable to circulate such a fake oath of the Knights of Columbus is going the limit, and is disgusting to every lover of justice and fair play.

Yours for a square deal,
Macks Creek, Mo. D. BOONE OSBORN.

Handle Babies Gently.

TO THE Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
I WISH to protest against a form of cruelty to children from which my little 2½-year-old daughter suffers at the hands of the public, hoping some of the offenders will read this and mend their ways. I am obliged to take her with me when I go shopping and we would get along very well if people would keep their hands off her.

I am as proud as any mother could be and feel pleased and flattered by attention to my child. She is friendly and smiles at everyone who looks at her. Then begins the laying on of hands. Sometimes slaps that are painful blows, intended as love pats, I suppose, but she is sensitive and resents this vulgar familiarity, and in spite of my efforts to protect her, often is made fretful by this treatment, so I am obliged to return home without accomplishing my errands.

I have explained that people do this because they like her and want to play. She replied: "I want them to talk to me and love me just a little bit but they ought not to hit me and rub their fingers on my face."

If folks would speak to her and enjoy a sweet little smile and a few words of conversation I would gladly share her with them to that extent, but by all that is sensible and decent I do wish strangers would keep their hands off.

MAUDE K. BROWN.

The Neglected Unemployment Problem.

TO THE Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
THE cruellest act of civilization today against mankind is its failure to provide employment for millions of willing workers. We cannot be truthfully called a civilized nation so long as able and willing men and women are denied the right to earn a livelihood by their own labor.

THE CIRCUIT JUDGES.

The Post-Dispatch published Wednesday the records of candidates in the primaries next Tuesday for United States Senator and Circuit Attorney. It follows today with the records of candidates for Circuit Judge. It is a very solemn duty that confronts the people of St. Louis with respect to these men. They control the processes of justice in the city. If they are recreant to their trust, as Mr. Sidener was shown by the record Wednesday to have been, they are unfit to hold public office.

The St. Louis Bar Association has performed the useful service of judging the judicial candidates from the point of view of the lawyers. It has endorsed those candidates who would, in the opinion of its members, make good Judges, and it has withheld its endorsement from those who are not, in the judgment of lawyers, qualified for a place on the bench. The following candidates for Circuit Judge have been endorsed by the Bar Association:

REPUBLICANS—Claude O. Pearcy, Henry A. Hamilton, Wilson A. Taylor, Victor H. Falkenhainer, Arthur H. Bader, Erwin G. Ossing, John W. Calhoun, Fred J. Hoffmeister and George Edward Mix. (Judge Mix trailed all the Republican candidates in the lawyers' vote, for a reason which will appear in this editorial.)

DEMOCRATS—George T. Priest, Joseph Kane, Samuel H. Leiberman, James F. Green, James M. Douglas, O'Neill Ryan, Frank C. O'Malley, Moses N. Sale and William L. Mason.

The following candidates for Circuit Judge failed of endorsement by the Bar Association:

REPUBLICANS—J. Ray Weinbrenner, Clyde C. Beck, James E. Renick, A. Samuel Bender, Anthony F. Ittner, Campbell Allison, Loomis J. Fitzsimmons, Karl Kimmel, Francis G. Sebek, Harry P. Rosecan, James G. Blaine, Joseph C. Schroeder, William D. Moore, Robert L. Spellbrink, Frank B. Grodzki, Charles P. Armbruster and Rudolph Schneider.

DEMOCRATS—M. G. Baron, George P. Burleigh, John P. Collins, William S. Connor, Harry F. Russell, James A. Waechter, Robert J. Kirkwood, William A. Kane, Marion X. Morris, Anthony A. O'Halloran and C. Mort Ewalt.

In the cases of some of these men there is no public record by which the voter may judge of their qualifications, particularly in the cases of young men who may for this reason have failed to secure the endorsement of the Bar Association. In the cases of Judges already on the bench, or lawyers established in practice and therefore well known to their associates, the endorsement or the want of it are of the greatest importance. In the case of Judge Mix, for instance, it is surprising that he should have been even the last man of nine to qualify in the vote taken by the Bar Association. It was Judge Mix who freed Rutherford, upon payment of $500, of the murder of a bellboy. He said:

Sidener brought into my court a nice piece of rope for his own neck. Why should I have warned him? I knew his proposal to release Rutherford was rotten. I knew there would be a roar from the newspapers. I realized that the people would resent it. But Sidener is not answerable to me. He is not answerable to the Attorney-General. He is not answerable to the grand jury. He is answerable only to the people.

Thus did he disqualify himself to be a judge. It was not his business to give Sidener rope with which to hang himself. He was there to see that justice was done, and he did not do that. He accepted Sidener's recommendation of a $500 fine for Rutherford, and subsequently he attempted to justify his action by saying that he was bound to accept the recommendations of the Circuit Attorney. That is not the case. He should have imposed a penalty commensurate with the crime, which he had a right to do, or else have made the defendant stand trial. Had he done that he would not have run him off on the Bar Association list, and he would have qualified for reelection. As it is, he has shown himself to be unfit for the responsible office he holds. He should be defeated.

Judge Ittner also should be defeated. His practice, when he left the city, of leaving signed criminal bail bonds in the hands of his friend, Sam Arky, a professional bondsman, is sufficient to defeat him. A grievance committee of the Bar Association which investigated this practice found Judge Ittner's action "subject to grave criticism and censure." It was, in truth, a public scandal, meaning, as it did, that Arky, a defaulting bondsman, had power in the Judge's absence to fix bail for the court. The Missouri Association for Criminal Justice, in its report on court abuses, said, having Ittner and Arkey in mind, that "it was perhaps the most serious case of a professional bondsman being permitted to ply his trade in spite of definite disqualifications," and it added: "Although he had $30,000 in bond forfeitures outstanding on Sept. 1, 1925, he was surety on $90,000 of bonds then, of which one Circuit Judge had approved $65,000 worth." Ittner's sole explanation of this scandalous relation between a judge and a bondsman was: "Arky is my friend." Ittner's court has a bad reputation. He, too, is unfit to sit on the Circuit Bench.

Another unfit candidate who should be defeated by the voters is Police Judge Harry P. Rosecan. It was found in January, 1927, that Judge Rosecan, who dealt chiefly with traffic violations, accepted free taxicab service from the Canary Taxicab Co., owned by "Dinty" Colbeck, ward politician and leader of the Egan Gang. Colbeck is now serving 25 years at Atlanta for robbing the mails.

A Samuel Bender is obviously unfit for the Circuit Bench. In the Rutherford case he appeared in the dual role of special prosecutor and damage suit lawyer for the mother of the murdered bellboy. He consented to the $500 fine, having already made a money settlement by which the boy's mother received $6500 and Bender $1000. Bender was indicted with Sidener in this case for compounding a felony and conspiring to defeat justice, but the charges were dismissed after the Governor of Arkansas refused to honor requisition for the Rutherford. His representation to Sidener that the witnesses to the killing could not be found, when reporters had no trouble locating them, proved the insincerity of his efforts to have the slayer punished. His reputation is anything but that of one qualified for the Circuit Bench and among 510 lawyers who voted in the Bar Association on the judicial candidates Bender received but 17 votes. That is what lawyers think of his candidacy, and it would be unfortunate if he people thought any better of it. He should be defeated.

The remedy for crime lies in the hands of the people. They can drive the criminal out of the city by making him fear justice, and that is the only way they can drive him out. It is for the voters of St. Louis to say whether they want disinterested administration of justice or compromise with crime. They can decide this issue for themselves when they vote at the primaries next Tuesday.

With the exception of Judge Mix, whose disqualification has been explained, it is a safe rule to vote for judicial candidates endorsed by the Bar Association.

CHINA GOES FORWARD.

We have been curious to know what the new Nationalist Government intends to do in China, and Sun-fu, son of the great Sun Yat-sen, has come over to tell us. The program which he outlines will command the admiration of all nations, and it should command the unstinted support and co-operation of their governments.

The Nationalist Government proposes to build 100,000 miles of railroads and 1,000,000 miles of motor roads. It intends to develop and extend the inland waterways, and to construct new ports. By thus improving transportation, it expects to open up its mineral resources, and to colonize vast tracts of waste land, thus relieving the congestion in the cities and providing new food supplies.

In the matter of foreign relations, it will stand for no more unequal treaties, and it will resist any plans which Japan may have to annex Manchuria. While granting complete religious freedom, including freedom for foreign missionaries, it will insist upon complete control of its own schools. In short, China purposes to govern itself without outside interference.

The United States Government should be the first to lend its support to the new government and its program. Our traditionally good relations with China have not been improved by the attitude of Mr. Coolidge and Mr. Kellogg. The administration has been quick to resent the excesses of the Nationalists, and reluctant to recognize their accomplishments and good intentions. It is to be hoped that the next administration, whether Republican or Democratic, will adopt a more intelligent and sympathetic attitude toward the efforts of a great people to come abreast of civilization.

UP GOES GASOLINE.

The price of gasoline, and kerosene, too, was boosted a cent a gallon in Chicago on Tuesday. That was the word passed out by the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana. The advance went into effect in St. Louis on Wednesday.

The Indiana Standard has substantial reasons for raising the price of gasoline. Col. Stewart, chairman of the board, has lately had some rather expensive experiences. That sparring match with the Senate Committee, in which he was flanked by lawyers who think extemporaneously in five figures was costly and the subsequent trial for contempt also took its toll. How much we cannot say, but his quota of Continental Trading Company's profits—$763,000, omitting the interest—may be entered as one item of loss.

Again, Col. Stewart's misadventures financially are negligible, yes, inconsequential, compared with those of his friend and partner in commercial crusading, Harry Sinclair. What with bribery, attorneys' fees and providing for the deficit which burdened the frail shoulders of Will Hays for electing Mr. Harding in the post-bellum struggle of 1920—what with all these tappings and touchings and panhandlings, Harry Sinclair must have suffered some flattening of the pocketbook.

So the price of gasoline has started to climb.

BEEF STEAK AND POTATOES.

Porterhouse steak is selling for 90 cents a pound in Chicago, and it is possible, they say, that the war-time top of a dollar may be reached. Prices of other cuts are climbing upward.

To the cattle man, naturally pleased at this market, Senator Smoot of Utah, if he is logical, will have to say that the tariff has done it.

But how about potatoes? They were selling in New York last week at $1.37 to $1.50 in barrels weighing from 165 to 170 pounds—"the lowest level in more than 60 years at this season." For the farmers of North Carolina, South Carolina, Virginia and Maryland, those prices have just about paid for the freight, cost of containers and labor of picking. There has been little, if any, profit.

A large grower in North Carolina had 400 carloads of potatoes for which he could get no bid and was obliged to dump them out of the barrels and let them go to waste.

Senator Smoot's beneficent tariff, we suppose, has not yet got around to the potato crop.

THE ROBERT E. LEE.

The Robert E. Lee, most famous and fastest of Mississippi River packets, ran from New Orleans to St. Louis in 90 hours and 31 minutes when she won her classical race from the Natchez.

That time has never been beaten in the 58 years since the race was run. The distance is 1154 miles. The Robert E. Lee averaged more than 12 miles an hour. No other steamer, and many fine ones have tried it since that feat of the Robert E. Lee, has been able to breast the current continuously for 90 hours at such a pace.

An effort to beat the record is being made now, but not by a steamboat. Steamboats are not built so fast now as they were when the Robert E. Lee and the Natchez were built. It costs too much money to fuel them. The great boats like the J. S. and the St. Paul, which we see languorously excursioning on the river about St. Louis, are beautiful, but they are not fast. The Alton, which was destroyed by ice some years ago while in winter quarters, was probably the fastest steamboat that has run on the Mississippi in our time. A sidewheeler, as the Robert E. Lee was, and heavily powered, she carried 24-foot wheels. It is a gasoline boat that is trying to beat the record. This boat, the Bogie, measures 24 feet. It carries its owner, Dr. Louis Leroy, a Memphis sportsman, and is being navigated by A. A. Faris, a veteran Mississippi pilot. At Memphis they were three hours ahead of the Lee's time. They are due in St. Louis tomorrow.

One of the apologists for the I. T. S. franchise says the railroad tracks will traverse a district that has only an industrial future. We would say that after freight trains have been run through it for a while that will be true, even if it was not true before the franchise was granted.

The Chinese Nationalist Government

TRIANGLE IN THE EAST.

From the New York World.
A SHREWD and able student of affairs in China, Thomas F. Millard, reports to the New York Herald Tribune from Shanghai that it is impossible longer to doubt that the gravest situation in China-Japanese relations since the presentation of the famous 21 demands has arisen, and adds that it will inevitably raise a formidable question of policy for the United States. It is not necessary to go this far in order to admit that a situation of far-reaching importance is developing in the East, and that the United States has an interest in it.

There are three fundamental facts on which this situation hinges:
First—A new Nationalist Government has come into power in all sections of China except the Northern province of Manchuria and the distant province of Mongolia. This Government is a moderate Government. It wishes the old system of one-sided treaties abolished and a new system of equitable treaties substituted; but it is apparently determined to accomplish this result, if it can be accomplished, by the orderly processes of diplomacy.

Second—There are two conflicting opinions in Japan as to what policy should be followed in these circumstances. There is one opinion, based on the long time view, that it is Japan's own interest to win the friendship of China by helping to put that nation on its feet. This is the point of view of a large part of the press and of many members of the Diet. In contrast with this point of view there is the theory that Japan can profit most by helping to block the emergence of China as a modern power as long as possible, and by making the most of China's weakness in the meantime. This is the point of view of the military.

Finally, there is the United States, whose foreign policy for 30 years it has been to oppose special privileges in China. For at least a third of that time the United States has favored a new treaty status, which would establish China as a genuinely sovereign nation, co-equal under international law with all other nations.

These are the three fundamental factors in this particular situation; and except for the fact that the nationalist government has extended its authority as far north as Peking there is nothing essentially new about them. What is new is simply that the consolidation of China by the Nationalists has sharpened the edge of the difference between the policy of the United States and the policy of Japan in so far as the latter represents the point of view of the military.

To the United States the fact that all China south of the Great Wall has been brought at last technically under unified command is welcome news; and the announcement that 1500 American marines have been withdrawn from Tientsin and the simultaneous announcement that a new note "dealing with the treaty situation" has been dispatched to China by the State Department are generally interpreted in Washington as foreshadowing recognition of the Nationalist government by the United States.

To the military party in Japan, however, this same news of the unification of China south of the Great Wall is not welcome news at all; for the developments it reports may threaten special privileges of Japan in this part of China and even foreshadow an attempt by the Chinese Nationalists to push their authority north of the Great Wall. Into Manchuria, where 20,000,000 Chinese live, but where Japan claims a "special sphere of influence." At the same moment when the United States is presumably offering to negotiate new treaties with China the Japanese Government is demanding the renewal of an old treaty of 1896 specifically affirming the right of extra-territoriality. At the same moment when the United States is plainly gratified by China's progress toward unity the Japanese Government, as reported by the Associated Press to have warned the local Government of Manchuria not to throw in its lot with the Nationalists—a direct move toward splitting Manchuria off from the rest of China.

There is no doubt that the policy of the United States and the policy of the present Government in Japan are fundamentally in disagreement. This fact, however, certainly does not involve us in a quarrel with the people of Japan. For, in the first place, if we do not see eye to eye with the present Government, at least our point of view is rather substantially shared by a large part of the Japanese press and by the political parties which followed "a friendship policy" toward China until they lost control of the Government in April of last year. And in the second place there is nothing in our point of view which brings us into direct conflict even with the military party. We ask, and have asked ever since the first note of John Hay, for an open door in Manchuria and equal rights with all other powers of trade and of investment. But that is as far as we can go, have gone or should go. China's problem of recovering her "lost province" of Manchuria is China's own.

The limits of our policy are clearly defined and historically established. If we cannot interfere in the Manchurian question, at least we can, and should, studiously refrain from giving our direct or indirect approval under international law to any attempt to establish Japanese hegemony in that province. And for the rest we can, and should, surrender our own share of the wholly indefensible foreign control over China's tariffs. We can, and should, sign treaties for the progressive abandonment of our own rights of extra-territoriality. We can, and should, give our moral support to the first united government which China has had in a decade and encourage its efforts to establish order and prepare the way for progress.

No nation in the world can reasonably find fault with us if we assert our friendship for China or propose to put our own treaties in decent, modern order.

AN OPPORTUNITY FOR AMERICA.

From the Washington Post.

THE United States is in a good position to negotiate a new treaty with China. This country is not entangled with others in dealing with the question. It is friendly with China and has no aims or interests that would not be promoted by a treaty of a reciprocal character, abolishing capitulations and all other obsolete arrangements that work to the disadvantage of China. By acting now, without waiting for other governments, the United States could gain and hold the special friendship of the Chinese nation, besides spurring other governments to more speedy action in the same direction and thus mitigating the danger of anti-foreign movements that might react upon Americans as well as all other foreigners.

The Nationalist government has been recognized by the United States as the de facto government of China. It should be recognized de jure.

LIGHT LYRICS FOR WARM WEATHER.

Oh, chant the praise of progress, but I took some things away. Some things we learned to cherish are fairer, slower days. Let steam supplant the billowed sail, and wood give place to steel. But steam can never give the thrill wood jammers made us feel; The auto has replaced the horse in mad mad rush for speed. But for the horse, whose day is done, many hearts must bleed; I favor new inventions, and all progress endorse, But never will these tear-dimmed eyes see children playing horse.

The children of the present day can know the thrill Involved in being thoroughbred or bred at one's will; The children of the present day have seen us as of old. But sit and push the things along, who leaves my fancy cold; What use they have for rope at all I am sure I cannot place, Imagination's lacking if they wish to see a race; Forgive this doleful ditty, friend, nor let my wild remorse, But never will these tear-dimmed eyes see children playing horse.

It is a peculiar commentary on modern civilization when the fact that the silkworms are beginning to go without home-made worries to the silk manufacturers.

The concessions in China may intensify with recognition, and recognition may interfere with the concessions in China.

Statistical Note.
If Smith's lead on "boloney" pictures was followed, the number of fishing photographs would be reduced 75 per cent.

Personally, we doubt very much if the average man thinks he is an average man either before or after his opinion of something is asked.

Imaginary Conversations.

Friend: What make of car are you driving now?
Driver: Wait until I read the paper and I'll tell you.

Queen Marie of Rumania has urged Prince Carol to travel, and if that does not make the verdict unanimous, what does?

Sometimes a candidate indirectly says what he feels about an issue by the expedient of continually talking about something else.

Vacation hint: So far as we know, only one who ever survived standing in a boat was George Washington.

We have not heard any more about Mr. Sinclair's jail sentence, but it begins to look as though Sinclair has not heard any more about it, either.

The chances are that if the Yankees win a few more games, they may get into the American League race.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.

THE modern theater owes much to the buskers of an unregenerate past. The busker flourished in hell-roaring days of Nigger Mike Salter, The Flea Bag, Piggy Donovan's, Steve Brodie's and other sawdust carpeted joints on the Bowery.

The buskers were gutter gamins who danced and sang for pithed pennies in the back rooms of beer saloons. A few of the ilk Charles and Black Bottom on sidewalks in the Forties uptown but most of them vanished with the saloon.

Many buskers are today feather-footed dancers and silver throated singers we now pay $5 a seat to see and hear. George White in the days he was known as "Swiftly the Messenger" in the Tenderloin was a busker. So was Izzy the Singing Walter before he became Irving Berlin.

Harlan Dixon was also one of the migratory tribe. The list is long and many are a little reticent about their early struggles, now that their names are hung up in lights. There are two famous girl dancers and a comedienne who began as busker.

The busker began his circuit of the barrooms shortly before midnight, when customers, waxing a little mellow, were likely to be loose with their change. He usually carried his own orchestra—a fattered companion who was adept with the harmonica.

He moved from dive to dive, doing his stuff for humanity's scum until the sun cast a bleary eye over the hectic revels. The busker at 12 knew more of the seamy side of life than most men at 30. He heard the coarsest in conversation and

They became engaged about two months ago. After the service Mr. and Mrs. Pulitzer boarded the Aquitania, which sailed at 11 p. m. for a honeymoon in Great Britain and France. They will stay a fortnight with Herbert Pulitzer, Ralph's brother, who, with his wife, has a shooting lodge at Dunkeld, Scotland. They expect to return about the end of September.

In addition to Mr. and Mrs. Leech and Mr. Pulitzer's two sons, his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Pulitzer of St. Louis, were at the wedding, also his sister, Mrs. William Moore. After Mr. and Mrs. Pulitzer return they will make their home at Killuna Farm, Manhasset, L. I.

Fire in Ralph Pulitzer's Home Damages Valuable Library. NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Fire in the home of Ralph Pulitzer at 7

East Seventy-third street last night burned out the library on the fourth floor, and destroyed valuable books, prints and pieces of furniture. The fire was discovered at 2:30 o'clock by a patrolman.

Firemen were able to confine the blaze to the room where it started. The cause of the fire could not be determined. The owner, aboard the Aquitania at the time, said there were many valuable first editions and richly bound volumes in the library. All were destroyed or badly damaged by fire and water. The loss is estimated at $20,000 to $30,000.

FUNERAL OF E. T. R. GREYNER, GAME LAW PIONEER TOMORROW

Former Deputy Warden Wrote Several Protective Statutes Now Enforced by U. S. and State.

Funeral services for Ellsworth E. T. R. Greyner, 63 years old, pioneer in game conservation laws and author of several now enforced in Missouri and by the Federal Government, who died yesterday of cancer, will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow at an undertaker's chapel at 5240 Delmar boulevard, with burial in Bellefontaine cemetery.

Greyner was born in St. Louis and educated at Smith Academy and Washington University. In early life he lived in San Francisco, but returned to St. Louis about 20 years ago. Always interested in wild game matters, he was red and gun editor of the Globe-Democrat and subsequently State Deputy Game Warden of the St. Louis district. Besides writing protective statutes, he invented a fish ladder, now in use, to enable fish to go up falls to spawn in quiet water.

Recently he lived in Jefferson City, whence he was brought to the City Hospital here a week ago. He is survived by two sons and two daughters.

First Performance of French Opera Given West of New York. By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 2.—The Ravina Opera Company, which presents opera out-of-doors, presented "Marouf" last night. This is the first time Henri Rabaud's French lyric drama has been played west of New York.

Mario Chamlee, tenor, sang the title role, and Mrs. Yvonne Galt, brought from Paris last season, appeared as the Princess, a part she has played frequently before audiences of the Opera Comique in Paris.

PILOT WEDS WOMAN FLYER

Miss Louise McPhetridge of Bentonville, Ark., married at Reno, Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BENTONVILLE, Ark., Aug. 2.—Mr. and Mrs. R. F. McPhetridge of Bentonville have announced the marriage of their daughter, Miss Louise McPhetridge of San Francisco, manager of an Oakland, Cal., airplane agency, to Herbert von Thaden, a flyer of San Francisco, the ceremony having taken place at Reno, Nev., on July 21.

Von Thaden is a graduate of the Boston Institute of Technology, studied in Europe and spent some years in Detroit working in airplane factories before establishing the Thaden Metal Air Craft Corporation about a year and a half ago in San Francisco for the manufacture of all metal planes. His bride, who was born in Bentonville, will continue to demonstrate and sell airplanes.

CHICAGO ELECTRIC "RATES REDUCED"

Cut by Commonwealth Edison
Co. to Save Customers
$1,250,000 Yearly.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 2.—A reduction in rates for all commercial light and power was announced yesterday by the Commonwealth-Edison Co. The reduction, according to the company, will save 115,000 customers $1,250,000 a year.

The new schedule will be presented today to the Illinois Commerce Commission and, unless the commission orders otherwise, it will be effective Sept. 1.

Under the new schedule for the small commercial class, the net price of electricity, paid within the 10-day discount period, will be $2.20 a month of maximum demand, plus 2.7 cents a kilowatt hour for electricity used, instead of a net demand rate of 8, 5 and 3 cents per kilowatt hour as at present.

After trying the new rate schedule, customers may choose which schedule they like best, company officials said.

"Sammy" Bender's Dual Role in the Rutherford Case.

"SAMMY" BENDER is seeking a nomination to the Circuit bench for the second time, having been a candidate in the primary two years ago. He previously sought the nomination for Prosecuting Attorney. He was formerly a member of the Republican City Committee. He received the lowest vote among the 25 Republican candidates in the Bar Association's recent poll, getting 17 votes out of 510 lawyers voting.

Bender appeared in the Rutherford murder case in the dual role of special prosecutor and damage-suit lawyer, representing the family of Jack Tucker, the bell boy killed by William Allen Rutherford. He interested himself entirely in a money settlement, instead of endeavoring to have the slaver punished. Circuit Attorney Sidener has said that Bender informed him that the witnesses in the murder case could not be found, and that for that reason he, Sidener, consented to Bender's plea for a $400 fine. The Rutherford family paid Tucker's mother $6500, and Bender collected $1000 as his fee in the damage suit.

The witnesses were readily available, as was shown by the Post-Dispatch at the time, and the fact of the killing could have been proved, as it was proved later in the trial of Sidener and Bender for compounding a felony.

As told yesterday in connection with Sidener's record, Bender was indicted with Sidener. The charges, compounding a felony and conspiracy to defeat justice, were dismissed after it proved impossible to bring members of the Rutherford family here from Arkansas.
Their testimony was essential in the case.

Bender recently appeared as attorney for Frank Bernoser, arrested here on a charge of committing a $2000 safe robbery in Oklahoma City. Bernoser, when arrested, had $1400 in a small black bag. The police held this money, but Bender went to Judge Gayer of the Court of Criminal Correction and got an order on the police for the money. Oklahoma authorities protested, and Circuit Attorney Sidener talked of taking the matter before the grand jury, but Bender held to the money, out of which, he remarked, his $1000 fee would have to come.

Candidates for Democratic Judicial Nominations.

THE nine Democratic candidates who received the highest vote in the Bar Association preferential poll were:

James F. Green.
O'Neill Ryan.
Moses N. Sale.
George T. Priest.
Joseph Kane.
James M. Douglas.
Frank C. O'Malley.
William L. Mason.
Samuel H. Liberman.

Green, who received the highest vote, is 72 years old, and is former general attorney for the Missouri Pacific Railroad. He was for eight years a Circuit Judge in Southern Missouri. Ryan and Sale are former Circuit Judges.

Piles Disappear

No Cutting or Salves Needed.
External treatments seldom banish piles.
Nor does cutting remove the cause.
The cause is inside—bad circulation.

The blood is stagnant, the veins flabby.
The bowel walls are weak, the parts almost dead.
To quickly and safely rid yourself of piles you must free the circulation—send a fresh current through stagnant pools. Internal treatment is the one safe method.
Ointments and cutting won't do it.
J. S. Leonhardt, M. D., a specialist, set at work some years ago to find a real internal remedy for piles. He succeeded. He named his prescription HEM-ROID, and tried it in 1800 cases before he was satisfied. Now HEM-ROID is sold by druggists everywhere under guarantee. It is a harmless tablet, easy

Wm. R. Schneider

Fought for Budget.

WILLIAM R. SCHNEIDER

40 years old. Born in Neb., he was educated public schools, Wayne Col-Nebraska, and the Univer-Michigan. He has practiced in St. Louis since 1911.

He has twice been a member of the Legislature. In 1923 voted his efforts almost exclusively to bringing about the passage of the Workmen's Compensation law, and in 1927 made a fight to obtain the passage of a bill creating a budget system for the State Government.

In this effort he was oppo-sited by virtually all the office group in the State, many of whom would have been jobless if the bill had passed. Notwithstanding opposition Schneider came out a few votes of getting the constitutional majority in the House.

Becoming a candidate for nomination for Governor, he er has carried the fight for reform direct to the voters and has not hesitated to Gov. Baker and other Stacials, whom he charges with responsibility for the failure of the bill in the Legislature. He has estimated that throughout his career he has spent entirely for political purposes, there is a financial to the State each year of $300,000.

Summary of Platform Schneider's platform was summarized in these extracted speeches:

"The cost of government
Missouri has increased 80 cent in 25 years while the wealth of the State has increased only 20 per cent."

"The laws of Missouri impose 152 varieties of fe-taxes which the people are compelled to pay."

"Millions of dollars of the people's tax money are being lost in Missouri through inefficient governmental inefficiency."

"The Governor cannot ably estimate the State's within a million dollars."

"The people of Missou-port 123 different ex-boards, bureaus and commissions, many of which collect and expend their money without counting to anyone."

A uniform system of accounting, the central purchasing of an impartial budget system, consolidation of related departments would avoid waste and rect conditions, Schneider in his campaign.

In carrying on his fight, er has found frequent opposition to the support of his ment, Henry S. Caulfield, Collector Koenig, whom he of an attempt to control the Government.

THREE CAPTURED SCALING WALL OF MISSOURI PRISON

Guards on Outside Fire at Convicts When They Show Heads at Top and Prisoners Surrender.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch, Aug. 2.—After they had sawed through three sets of bars and overpowered a guard, taking his clothes and pistol, three St. Louis convicts were fired on and caught as they scaled a wall in an attempt to escape from the State Penitentiary here last night.

The convicts are Carl F. Pittman, Richard Eoff and Joseph Harris, each of whom has made at least one previous attempt to escape. The three shared a cell in the basement of "B" building, where tough, incorrigible prisoners are confined at close quarters. Ora Lewis, lifeliner and one of the notorious Lewis brothers who murdered two St. Louis policemen, occupies a cell in the same building.

Three Disarm Guard.
The escape was attempted about 10:30 o'clock, when lights were low in the basement. Using saws which had been smuggled into them, the three convicts sawed through the bars of their cell, then sawed through the bars of a surrounding cage and finally climbed up and cut the bars on a window.

As Guard W. J. Chatfield made his rounds, one of the prisoners called to him and as he walked toward the cell, Pittman jumped down on him from the window sill. Eoff and Harris emerged from the shadows and the three prisoners stripped the guard of his clothing, took his pistol and bound and gagged him.

Pittman donned the guard's uniform and carried the guard's revolver. The three prisoners walked out of the basement through a passageway and started to climb over a retaining wall. Had they got over this wall, they could have achieved freedom by climbing an outer wall 100 yards away, as other convicts have done.

Convicts Surrender.
It so happened that two guards, Layton Miller and Sam Huffhines, were standing on the other side of the retaining wall and saw the heads of the convicts rise above the top. The guards waited until the convicts were in full view and then blazed away with their pistols. They missed, but the convicts surrendered. Pittman throwing away his stolen pistol without firing a shot.

As a means of scaling the outer wall, the convicts carried a rope made of twisted clothing and weighted with slabs from their coats.

All Tried to Escape Before.
Pittman, the leader in the unsuccessful break for liberty, was received at the penitentiary Dec. 19, 1924 to serve 10 years for robbery to which eight years have been added for his part in two previous attempts to escape. He was held for investigation when a fellow convict was stabbed to death, but no prosecution resulted as convicts refused to testify. In January, 1926 Pittman and a companion scaled the outer wall of the prison and started down the Missouri River on a cake of ice, under heavy fire from guards. The ice cake floated in to shore and Pittman was caught.

In the following October, he was one of seven prisoners who went on a rampage, exchanging shots with guards for several hours in one of the worst prison outbreaks in 20 years. Captured finally, he declared his intention to "try again" to escape.

Eoff a Lifer.
Eoff, sentenced to life imprisonment for killing a taxicab driver, was received at the penitentiary June 12, 1925. He once attempted to escape by dyeing his convict's clothes and, posing as a visitor, walking through a visitors' gate. At another time he made a statement to St. Louis County authorities purporting to clear up the

Stomach Disorders First Revealed by Coated Tongue

Your tongue is nothing more than the upper end of your stomach and intestines. It is the first thing your doctor looks at. It tells at a glance the condition of your digestive system—and physicians say that 90% of all sickness starts with stomach and bowel trouble.

A coated tongue is a danger signal of those digestive disorders which lead to so many kinds of serious illness. It tells why the least exertion tires you out; why you have pains in the bowels, gas, sour stomach, dizzy spells.

Coating on the tongue is a sign that you need Tanlac—the medicine which has helped thousands who were physical wrecks from stomach and bowel troubles—who had "tried everything" in vain and about given up hope.

Tanlac contains no mineral drugs; it is made of barks, herbs and roots. Get a bottle from your druggist today. Your money back if it doesn't help you.

mysterious murder of Dr. Dillon on the Washington University campus.
Harris, a St. Louisan sentenced from Jefferson County to 11 years' imprisonment for burglary and larceny, was received here June 23, 1925, and followed Pittman in the attempted escape of October, 1926.

I'LL TELL THE WORLD

By Neal O'Hara.

THE COMING SMITH-HOOVER FIGHT.

I HAVE just returned from a visit to the fighters' training camps at Palo Alto and Albany. Both are in pretty fair condition. When the squared boxing booth next November I am willing to stake my reputation that anything can happen. I made this same prediction before the Cleveland-Harison and Bryan-McKinley battles, and I was 100 per cent right.

Hoover is apparently in the pink. But the question is, Can he go the distance of fifteen radio speeches before the microphone? You've got to remember that since his battles in Belgium, Russia and the Balkans, Handsome Herb has done practically nothing but sit in a Department of Commerce swivel chair. This may hurt his chances when he enters the grueling campaign.

Hoover's larynx looked all right as he went through a snappy thirty-minute conversation. But he seemed a trifle muscle-bounded when making gestures. In a rough and tumble fight with Smith, Herb's left and right would be practically useless for slinging mud.

Hoover has got it all over Smith, however, in the matter of summer literature. When I visited Herb's shack he was poring over "The Metallurgical Survey of 1924," and scattered about his reading table were "Export Statistics on Button-hooks," by H. B. Vipsch; "Rubber Plantations in Liberia," by Angus Gindly, and "Fading Foreign Markets for Left Over Tinfoil," by Platch. Hoover has also read Schoepfle's "Treatment of Silver Ingots" twenty-nine times and learned to love it more each time.

Battling Al had just finished his morning pancakes when I visited his camp.

I said, "Al, what is the measurement of your chest?"

He said, "We hope to make it $1,000,000 if Raschok can raise the dough."

This is less than Hoover's chest, as that will expand to $4,000,000 by the time he gets through passing the bag. Just imagine it, you sport fans—$7,000,000 for the preliminaries alone. Andrew Jackson, Abe Lincoln and the other old-time gladiators would roll over in their graves if they ever dreamed of that.

Al perspired nicely during our chat and was oozing confidence at every pore. "Hoover's weakest point is his farm relief," said Al, "and I will sock him there good and plenty. Then I will gradually wear him down jabbing at his property issue. I am right in fettle to tackle him now. Despite my advice from Southern Prohibitionists, I am not going through any drying-out process."

Comparing the two contenders, Al's wind is much better than Herb's. Smith can go through 12 tough radio speeches without gargling a glass of water. As he went through his chatting exercises, his reach was perfect. He reached from First Avenue to One Hundred and Eighty-Third Street with perfect grace. What he needs now is to perfect himself in reaching the doubtful States.

Smith's fighting height will be six feet two inches, including his bumpy derby.

After sizing up both fighters closely, I am convinced Hoover will win if he gets enough pivotal States. However, Smith has only to pile up more electoral votes and he will be in.

Either man would make a popular President. And both say, if elected, they will defend the Presidency every six months.

Household Hints.

The juice will not run out of fruit pies if you put bits of butter (or substitute) near the butter edge.

Lemonade made with sugar syrup is far superior to that made with plain sugar.

When the ice-pick cannot be found use one of the old-fashioned hat pins to break the ice. A darning needle will be found satisfactory for cracking ice.

For labels that will stick in all weathers use the white table oilcloth. Adjust it wrong side out and write with ink on this rough side. These oilcloth markers are good to sew on blankets and other camping outfits. For jar labels run a strong thread through the label and tie around neck of jar.

Always use a funnel when filling the hot-water bag to prevent the water from collecting around the nozzle and causing a leakage.

Gold Cake.

A lovely cake in which to use the egg yolks left from that soufflé. Cream together  $\frac{1}{4}$  cup butter and 1 cup granulated sugar. Add 4 well-beaten egg yolks, then  $\frac{1}{2}$  cup milk. Sift together 3 times  $\frac{1}{2}$  cups flour,  $\frac{1}{4}$  teaspoon salt, 2 teaspoons baking powder and add to the other ingredients. Add 1 teaspoon vanilla and beat well. Bake in a moderate oven for 15 minutes.

ETIQUETTE

THE HOST ORDERS.

Is it permissible to put butter on crackers when eating them with soup?

2. When dining at a restaurant with a gentleman just what is the proper procedure when ordering? I have thought it was correct for the lady to give her order to her escort who would then give the order for both to the waiter, but I find in some restaurants the waiter will come to the lady first. In a certain case where an escort does not speak fluent English would it not be simpler and correct for the lady to order for both?

3. Regarding the much-discussed question of whether or not a lady should take the gentleman's arm or vice versa, I have a number of European friends who offer their arms to the ladies—and the Americans take the ladies' arms. I have one European friend in particular who seems to think I should always take his arm—just while walking, and in case I stub my toe or something while I do not have his arm, is always very much disturbed about it. Will you please write me fully about what is correct?

E. N.

1. Yes, if you wish.

2. The lady should give her order to the gentleman who is her host. And the fact that the waiter looks to the woman for his order does not make this procedure correct. A waiter, unless he is marvelously trained, will like most of us, do the thing that is easiest for him. To a waiter most women either do not know that they should give their order to the gentleman with whom they are, waiters grow accustomed to having them give their orders directly to them. This "mistake" of the host who orders, however, should be changed, and the waiter will, in a minute, get the point that he is to receive his order from the gentleman. The "masterful" host, the host who knows what's what, will give both orders to the waiter.

I am sorry that I don't agree with you that it would be kinder to the host who does not speak English, if the girl gave her order directly to the waiter. It seems to me that it would distinctly embarrass the host if he felt that his English were not adequate to giving an order, or that his hostess did not consider it adequate. The assistance can be given in a much more gracious way, I think.

3. It is "the custom of the country" that decides here. And in America a gentleman should not take a lady's arm. The lady takes the gentleman's arm only when she needs it—and he offers it—in crossing a crowded street or on an icy pavement, or something of this kind.

YOUR BATH

Made delightfully refreshing by palm and olive oils in this famous soap

WOMEN by the thousands who keep their good complexions by the use of palm and olive oil soap have learned how delightfully refreshing a soothing, cleansing bath of these beautifiers can be. These oils, embodied in the famous beauty soap, Palmolive, are now within the reach of all. Skin radiantly clear, gloriously soft, results from its continued use.

A stimulating warm bath made of Palmolive refreshes a tired body at night—tones the skin in the morning—leaves you in a tingle of fresh cleanliness all day long.

These rich beauty oils of olive and palm are scientifically blended only in Palmolive Soap. Its gently penetrating pores, unguentally releases the soil and dried excretions of the day. Skin is kept fine textured, pores are never harshly inflamed. Your whole body is as youthful and fresh as your complexion.

Today start the Palmolive habit. But remember, only genuine Palmolive brings Palmolive results. Everywhere—10c. The Palmolive-Peet Company, Chicago, Illinois.

MAKING UP THE MATURING FACE.

WHEN "sweet sixteen" overcomes or yields the lipstick with too lavish a hand, she merely succeeds in making herself look a bit cheap. But when "sweet sixteen" mother does such things, she adds to her apparent years, and she accentuates her bad points, in addition to making herself a bit cheap.

There are a few cardinal laws of make-up which every woman ought to know and which women over 35 particularly, ought never fall to observe. And the first and most important of these laws is this: The heavier the application of rouge powder and lipstick, the older and the coarser looks the face beneath it.

Law the second is a negative one which says: Never, never rouge a hollow, a puff bag, pucker or line in the skin—unless you wish to make said imperfection doubly conspicuous.

So, if there is any tendency toward puffy or baggy eyes, or any suggestion of the "parentheses" lines at the sides of the nose, blend the rouge faintly in the center of the cheek, carrying it down the face and keeping it clear of the eyes and the nose.

As to the correct shade of rouge for faces no longer in the first gay flush of youth, the softer tones of rose and coral are safest usually. Daring, vivid shades are not in harmony with the mellowing complexion.

Where the skin is florid, rather than mellow, it is most advisable to rouge not at all. A judicious admixture of flesh and rachel powders and a touch of coral-tinted lipstick can be ever so effective in this case.

Flesh powder alone, a warm flesh—not lingerie pink—works wonders with the skin that is growing a bit dull or "pasty" with the passing of the years. However, do not depend solely upon makeup, if this be your particular "problem," kind reader. Remember a dull and "pasty" skin is one in which the play of blood has slowed down. Therefore, the best of all solutions is not flesh powder, but a good sound spanking of the face with the finger tips, at least once a day. Stimulating preparations are recommended, likewise.

But, just a word about powder textures for the skin over 35 years of age. As a rule, it is well to choose a soft, rather creamy-textured powder, since most skins tend to grow dry as the birthdays increase. Also, it is but beauty wisdom to "build" the makeup upon a cream or lotion "foundation."

Very few women over 30—that is, this side of the footlights—make up their eyes. But to those few, the beauty shop is impelled to utter a little word of caution. Mascara and shadow may lend depth, sparkle, mystery and the illusion of largeness, but unless one is nothing short of the great artist in the use of eye makeup, it is more than likely to lend other and less desirable illusions—an unpleasant weariness, for example, age.

Indians to Have Maternity Huts

THROUGH the efforts of missionary workers the Copper River Indians have at last given tribal consent that their women be enabled to bring children into the world under the shelter of a roof. For centuries, winter or summer, mothers-to-be of the tribe have crept into the wilderness and given birth to their offspring in snowdrifts, forests or swamps.

At a recent mass meeting the grand council decided that women may go outside their cabins or stay inside, as they desire, for the advent of children. Missionaries have assisted in the construction of maternity huts and some of the natives are constructing separate bedrooms on their one-room houses. The older women, however, shake their heads at the ways of the younger generation and scoff at the "weakness" and extravagance of the young women. Some young women of the tribe persist in the ancient tradition, considering it a concession of weakness to depart from the ways of their mothers.

Try "Canada Dry" today with lunch

This summer weather has a way of getting hold of you just about lunch time and taking away your appetite. You don't want much. But you want something. "More to be eating," you say, "than because I'm hungry."

Now here is a suggestion. Order a light lunch with a green salad. Just plain lettuce with dressing or something with fruit in it.

And then, as a dessert, drink a bottle of "Canada Dry."

You'll be surprised how it refreshes you. Its subtle flavor instantly appeals to you. Its dryness quenches your thirst. Its mellowness simply sets you right with the weather and the world in general. Because "Canada Dry" contains finest quality Jamaica ginger and other absolutely pure ingredients—because it does not contain biting capicum (red pepper)—"Canada Dry" is really good for you in hot weather. Try it with luncheon today and see!

FASHION FADS AND FANCIES

By Mildred Ash.

Handling handwork in many open, lace treatments, the advance mode for tailored frocks of crepe de chine, flat crepe, satin, faille and damask gives the lead to this type of trimming. Heavy silk fagoting, hemstitching, drawn-work, and embroidered cutout patterns are all favored interpretations.

Furbishing furs so that they too may join in the general hue and cry for elaboration, rhinestone masks, of rhinestones attached to a metal mesh foundation, are being shown. The idea is to place such a decoration over the animal head of a fox, marten, or sable scarf—the ears, drawn through holes in the mesh, hold the latter in place. Great as is the vogue for all forms of costume jewelry, one can hardly expect such a grotesque suggestion to be seriously accepted by well-dressed women.

Checking your bag is an easy way to dispose of excess baggage, but when a bag is as small as the dainty velvet evening ones, the only checking it requires is the diagonally checked pattern emblem.

A Skin One Loves to Touch—Will be the new "gloveskin," which is a cashmere suede coating with a thickly napped, velvety surface. This dull finish weaves is one of the smartest fabrics for coats with warmth and style.

Anchored to Nautical Modes—One of the most swagger little hats is a barrel of navy serge with a large white silk anchor embroidered directly in front. The barrel theme is being enthusiastically revived in the most recent millinery.

Striking matches may sound like playing with fire, but the striking matches that affect the millinery and accessory mode merely fires the enthusiasm of well-dressed women who are interested in the new style of matching purse, cigarette case and vanity compact with one's hat ornament. The brightly colored enameled hat ornaments have greatly stimulated this demand for perfectly matched sets.

THREE GENERATIONS

by WARWICK DEEPING "AUTHOR OF 'SORRELL AND SON'"

SYNOPSIS

Old John Pybus, formerly a bookseller in London and later in Winterbourne, is serving as a porter in an inn at Castle Craven when his son, Conrad, sees him there. He's been estranged from both his sons since the beginning of the war and they have lost track of him. Conrad hastens to tell his brother, Probyn, that he has seen his father. Probyn's son, Lance Pybus, had believed his grandfather dead, but he looks him up at the Saracen's Head without telling his parents of the meeting. When Lance finishes at Cambridge he takes a room in London and after gaining his father's reluctant consent and a small allowance, he comes himself to writing. In London Lance meets and is attracted to Olive Gadsden, a mannikin.

INSTALLMENT XIX. A REBUFF.

THE voice came from the sitting room, and before Lance had begun to explain himself it was heard again.

"Is it you? Beh, old man? She's—out somewhere."

Lance stepped into the passage. He felt that he had to make an immediate reply to that unexpected challenge.

"Is Miss Merris in? I've walked over from Castle Craven."

Then followed a little silence as of surprise, but Lance fancied that he could hear a chair pushed back.

"My sister's out somewhere. Who is it?"

"Lance Pybus. Is that Mr. Merris?"

The initiative was his and he took it. He walked up the passage and pushed open the door, to see a man in bagged and creased gray flannel trousers and a blue coat with brass buttons looking towards him and the open door.

"Forgive me for coming in. You know my grandfather, I think."

The man in the chair remained silent and unsure. His thin face was half in the shadow, and it had the sinister consciousness of a face that is unfriendly and not clearly seen. His attitude was a little furtive and unwelcome.

"Old Pybus, the porter at the Saracen?"

"Yes," said Lance quite gently. "Old Pybus the porter. Do you think I shall find your sister out there?"

Merris' blind eyelids seemed to stare like shuttered windows. He put a hand and fingered his beard, a strange and half senile gesture, hesitant, almost surreptitious. And Lance was conscious both of repulsion and pity. He noticed that the thin hand had a slight tremor.

"Afraid I'm worrying you. I'll go out and try to find your sister."

She was not in the garden, and he tried the orchard with its rank green grass and alleys of old trees. Nor was she in the orchard, but through the thinning lacework of one of the hedges he saw her in the little sloping field below the beech woods. And he stood still for a moment, watching her pass a quick and sensitive curiosity, and a feeling of strange inevitableness going to the gate in the hedge he passed through it. He wanted to call to her as he felt towards her.

"Mary?"

The naturalness of it slipped out of him. She was about 20 yards away, fastening the gate of one of the wire runs. She turned and faced him, and his claiming of her as Mary. His impression was that she smiled.

He moved forward a few steps and paused.

"I have seen your brother. He told me I might find you out here."

She slipped the key of a padlock into a pocket of her jumper. And from her manner of looking at him he got the impression that she knew that he knew. He was conscious of a feeling of expectancy.

"I have just finished. We'll go in and have tea."

Everything bores him, poor Gill! Everything and nothing.

kettle from the fire, and held out his other hand for the teapot. She surrendered it silently, and went to the window that looked towards the orchard. The visit of grass and old trees had a dimness though twilight was not yet. She pulled down the blind, and Lance noticed that act of hers and seeing her turn towards the other window, he was struck by a something in her eyes, a look of apprehension.

"Tea by firelight—is that the idea?"

She answered that she disliked the November twilight, and pulled down the other blind, and he wondered whether she was shutting things out, other possibilities, incursions. He felt sure that it was so, and in him that inevitable tenderness towards her seemed to leap and glow.

During tea Lance tried to draw Merris out by talking to him about music, but Merris was not interested, and Lance gave up. He stayed on for half an hour, smoking a pipe with Mary's permission. He had offered Merris his pipe, and the fellow had refused it, and appeared to make a point of not smoking with Lance, sitting there with an air of sulky patience, and waiting for this chatter to go.

When his pipe was finished, Lance pulled out his watch and said that he had work to do. He stood over Merris for a moment as though waiting for a hand.

"Good night," and the blind man began to feel for his pipe.

Mary went with him to the porch door, and closing it after them, wandered down with him to the gate.

"I'm glad you came. You mustn't mind."

"Everything bores him, poor Gill, everything and nothing."

"Doesn't he touch that piano now?"

"No."

"We must get him back to it. If one could."

"May I try, Mary?"

"If you will. He used to extemporize. He had real genius, of a kind."

And though she did not thank him, he knew somehow that he had more than her thanks.

For some days old Pybus was just a little sad. Possibly he felt himself to be a spectator, the old rector in the chair at his cottage door watching the lusty young things at play.

He felt moved to preach a sermon upon matrimony. It would be a blessing, O, old fashioned fellow, damping marriage as an adventure, and hailing it as a sacrament, the growth of an exquisite comradeship.

Did the Venerable wish to see Lance and Mary consummate that comradeship? Undoubtedly he did. Of all men the artist needs a mate, but a very particular mate, and the Venerable, having pondered upon life, wanted Lance to marry. He wanted him to marry Mary, for he divined in Mary that particular woman. So, during those November days he went about with an air of sage attentiveness. He had left the core of the problem to youth, for the very passion of youth is a solvent of problems, and though it was November old Pybus felt thunder in the air, emotional thunder, and some time the clasp of it would break over the muddled head of that poor blind devil, and over the head of Mary, and over the head of some one else. Were ash sticks carried without a purpose? But if Lance got hurt—

Lance, prodding the turf of Mary's field with that self-same stick, and devotedly probing the problem and finding himself prodding the air as well as the more solid turf, would fall back upon the seemingly obvious protest.

And looking over his head she would reply that, somehow or other, you couldn't drop certain burdens. They were fastened to your shoulders, and you would not be happy if you let the cords be cut, and then sneaked off into the future.

Trawler Reports Se Ship 50 Miles Off Fr Coast—Men Had pared a Year for Flight

By the Associated Press.
LORIENT, France, Aug. 2.—Headed through heavy clouds, the Polish trans-Atlantic plane, Marsalek Pilsudski, left Paris early this morning. New York, it is thought to be out to sea on its long flight. Three hours and 24 minutes or a hazardous takeoff at Le Bourget with their heavy plane, Louis Idzikowski and Maj. M. Kubala were reported to be sighted by the French. The plane, 60 miles off French coast.

The Pilsudski sent a message to the maritime service. Lorient that the white plane sighted at 8:10 a. m. mean time in latitude 47 north longitude 4° 30 west at an altitude of approximately 600 feet. The plane was headed westward.

From the position given, it seemed the Poles left the French coast between the Gulf of Morbihan and Lorient.

At 100-Mile-an-Hour speed. Visibility was poor and not the coastal stations or other outposts saw the plane.

The spot at which the flyers reported is approximately 100 miles from Le Bourget, India. The airman were doing approximately 100 miles an hour, slightly better than they planned.

The weather along the coast stated to be stormy, but the Poles had anticipated this. French weather reports and hopeful of better weather conditions as they approached the American continent. They planned to fly over the Azores and perhaps Bermuda, striking directly for the United States. They were expected to the Azores between 3 and 5 o'clock (St. Louis time).

Idzikowski and Kubala he off at 5:46 a. m. daylight (10:46 p. m. Thursday, St. Louis time).

They went against the adverse the French weather service were confident in word America that they would run good conditions on that side of Atlantic.

Expect to Land Tomorrow. The flyers expected to land New York tomorrow afternoon or a flight of about 3500 miles pending on the route followed strong northeasterly breeze ed them on their course which over the Azores.

The flyers circled widely at the Paris suburbs and signalled the accompanying planes that all going well.

After the flyers took off weather reports were given while they were not especially variable, they offered more hope than any previous reports. "Nitchewo" was the last Idzikowski spoke to friends.

Idzikowski, wearing a light coat over street clothes, climbed into the plane first. He took pilot's seat. Kubala in light green took the navigator's position. One slight incident delayed the start when an oil fuel tank filled too full and over-pressured the pilot's seat. St. Louis mechanics rapidly sponged off the plane.

With the motor roaring and putting red and blue flames, the flyers started the plane down the field, accompanied by a line of encouragement. As the plane got up speed and began to rise, it seemed to rise from the ground with its heavy load. "They'll never make it,"
